Army Expected Japs To Attack U. S. West Coast, Marshall Says

Tells Pearl Harbor Probers Hawaii Blow Was Rated "Most Improbable" by High Command.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 8—The U S high command expected the Japanese to bomb airplane factories in Seattle, Wash and San Diego, Calif., rather than Pearl Harbor, in 1941, Gen George C. Marshall disclosed today.

Questioned by the joint congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee, the wartime chief of staff testified he and other high officers thought this way early in December, 1941.

"I assumed Guam would be taken, probably Wake, though taking Wake island would be more difficult There was a possibility that an effort would be made to strike at the Panama canal, our air plants in Seattle and San Diego."

Marshall said he thought "the most improbable" form of the Japanese assault would be what actually happened — a blow at Hawaii

At that time the aircraft industry on the west coast was starting to reach high production although quantity output had not yet reached the armed forces

Marshall told of his pre-war views under questioning of Rep Gearhart (D-Calif).

Gearhart repeatedly asked why Marshall did not take more notice of Lt Gen Walter C Short's message that he had placed the Hawaiian garrison on only a 'sabotage' alert on Nov 28, 1941 Short gave this information in replying to a message on Nov 27 that hostile action was possible

"That was my opportunity to intervene and I didn't take it," Marshall replied. "Just why, I don't know."

He observed that Lt Gen. Leonard T Gerow, former chief of the war plans division, had assumed full responsibility for any war department failure to send additional warnings to Short.

"I greatly admired his attitude," Marshall commented.

Gearhart also asked a number of questions about the information former Secretary of State Hull gave Marshall on diplomatic maneuvers

Marshall replied to most of these that he could not recollect details He did say he had a firm remembrance that about Nov 25, 1941 Hull declared there was no chance of an agreement with Japan and the situation was in the hands of the Army and Navy

Gearhart asked how the Army and Navy felt during Oct 1941, and thereafter about the need of gaining time to build for the eventuality of war

"I thought we might or should be ready by Dec. 5," Marshall said.

Marshall said he also believed in late 1941 that "if we had 100 four-engine bombers in the Philippines," Japan would have stopped its aggression

The former chief of staff said

RAEDER TELLS WHY GRAF SPEE SCUTTLED

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, Dec 8—Grand Adm Erich Raeder one of the 20 Nazi defendants facing the international military tribunal said today he ordered the 10,000-ton pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee scuttled off Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec 17, 1939

The former commander of the navy volunteered this statement in answering questions submitted by The Associated Press through his attorney

(It was officially announced in Berlin in 1939 that Hitler, as supreme commander of the German armed forces, ordered the crippled Graf Spee destroyed rather than moved out to meet waiting British cruisers again after Uruguay refused to extend harbor privileges beyond 72 hours.)

Asked why the order was given to blow up the Graf Spee instead

Secret of Jap Code Smashing Survived Loose Talk, Treason

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 8—The hottest secret of the war—that the U S had cracked the Japanese code—was cocktail bar gossip in Washington and Tokyo never got wise.

Army officers spoke 'carelessly' of it One code cracker tried to sell it Fliers in the Pacific theater deduced it

Sitting on top of the powder keg was General George C Marshall chief of staff, who told Pearl Harbor investigators in congress now one thing after another turned up to give him the military creeps

Dewey Kept Secret

He said he had heard Governor Thomas E Dewey knew the secret and feared it might become public during the presidential campaign. Dewey kept silent at Marshall's plea

The general said he didn't know how the information got to Dewey. But the code cracking staff was 16 000—a lot of chances for leaks.

Talk drifted back from the Pacific after Army fliers shot down Admiral Yamamoto (who once said he would dictate the peace in the White House) They had to be told where to go and when, and could deduce the Japanese communications were tapped.

Marshall indicated he got so concerned about the "whispering" he asked FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to trail some army officers "so we could shake up the people of them."

Hoover was hesitant,' Marshall said, contending it would make a "gestapo" of his force So it wasn't done

Salesman Caught

Marshall related how one of 26 code-crackers working at an army station at Fort Washington, Va., was caught trying to "sell" the secret in Boston The general didn't say what happened to that individual

Marshall thought one time the Japanese had discovered the U. S had cracked the code and were fixing some but That was when the Navy was moving in for the kill at Midway, often described as the great turning point of the war. One unit of the Japanese fleet sent out over the air in code that its next port office address would be Midway Island.

"That stunned a Nip too think," Marshall said.

Marshall said it was quite a "relief" for the Navy to see the Japanese fleet where it was supposed to be and where it was a sitting duck for American aviators.

GMC STRIKERS STUDY TRUMAN PEACE APPEAL

Local Delegates Also Review Wage Dispute as Negotiations Are Recessed.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Dec 8—The General Motors council of the CIO United Auto Workers union today rejected the offer of General Motors Corp. of a 19 per cent wage increase to end the nationwide strike at GM plants.

By The Associated Press

President Truman's plea to striking employes of General Motors Corp, to return to their jobs was up for consideration today by GM local union delegates from 20 states

As the 200 members of the national GM council met in Detroit at a session called by the International CIO United Auto Workers, they also planned a review of the wage dispute which precipitated the work stoppage of more than 200 000 GM employes on Nov 21

The meeting was called as wage negotiations were in recess until Monday, with no immediate indication of an early settlement over the union's demands for a 30 per cent wage rate increase.

Probe Charges

Latest development in the dispute was the disclosure the justice department, upon a request by the CIO union was investigating whether General Motors, among several concerns, was violating anti-trust laws in making automobile parts for competing auto manufacturers. General Motors has not commented on the investigation

An offer by General Motors Corp to increase the wages of 30 000 GM electrical workers in four cities 13½ cents an hour was rejected by the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America The union had asked a flat 25 cents an hour increase

Elsewhere along the nation's labor front, with the total idle because of disputes remaining at around 400 000, steps were taken to end two long walkouts

In Chicago, E W Callahan, president of the executive joint council of the AFL Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Union said there was a possibility the government might take over operation of Greyhound bus lines in 17 eastern and midwest states where a strike has disrupted service for nearly six weeks

Callahan said the federal conciliation service had directed company and union officials to appear in Washington next Thursday

In Washington, Sen Gurney (R-SD) said that the conciliation service had arranged a meeting next Tuesday of union officials and operators to discuss the midwest truck strike that has tied up 160 trucking firms in seven states

Granting of wage increases totaling about $5 000 000 annually to nearly 19 000 local and long distance telephone workers in the New York area ended a strike threat Companies involved are the New York Telephone Co and the American Telephone and Telegraph Co

1,500 Enemy Agents Arrested During War

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 8—The FBI has disclosed more than 1,500 enemy agents were arrested in the western hemisphere during the war

The list included spies, saboteurs and propagandists

Searches of alien enemy premises in the United States uncovered 3,127 short-wave radio receivers 2,240 sticks of dynamite 4,626 firearms, 906,247 rounds of ammunition and other contraband articles in large quantities, the FBI said in a report rounding up its activities in the years following Dec 7, 1941

FBI investigations resulted in the conviction of 141 enemy agents for espionage and Foreign Agents Registration act violations, the report said.

But the report stated proudly: 'During the entire emergency period there was no single successful act of foreign-directed sabotage. Most of the violations have been traced to spite or gross carelessness."

COUNTY'S BOND FIGURES SOAR

Near E Bond Goal and Overall Total More Than Doubles Quota.

When the Victory Loan drive officially ended today on all series except E bonds the Marion County War Finance committee reported the campaign in the city and county had more than doubled the quota

With today's sales still unreported, the drive total stands at $5 065 089 or 227 per cent of the quota of $2 223,000 Final report on the Victory Loan will not be available until Monday.

At the close of business yesterday E bond sales were $29,869 50 short of the quota of $562,650 Total sales for this series were $532 "80 50.

Aim at Goal Today

Campaign directors said that an effort will be made to reach the E bond quota today

However they gave assurance that the E bond quota would eventually be met since sales of this series will count toward the quota until Dec 31

Yesterday's sales were reported in the following amounts

Series E $61 643 75 series F $18 50, series G $1 000, series C $10 000, treasury 7/8 $23,000, treasury 2½ $137 000

Perfect Score for County

When the final reports are in Monday and when the E bond quota is met before Dec 31 Marion county will have the distinction of meeting its quota in every war financing campaign The Victory Loan is the eighth bond drive of the war

With one of the lowest quotas in recent drives the Victory Loan went over without any concerted selling pressure

School Drive Praised

The only organized campaign of the drive was the sales in the schools last week and early this week. The schools made what drive leaders consider a spectacular record by turning in sales of more than $101,000 in bonds, mostly of series E.

Russian Views on Iran Aired

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Dec 8—Russia blames the trouble in northern Iran on "reactionary elements which have opposed the extension of national rights to people of that area, the state department disclosed today

The information came with the release of the text of Russia's reply to a United States note of Nov 24 urging that all Soviet, British and American troops evacuate Iran by Jan. 1.

Russia pointed out that it had agreed with Britain to withdraw the troops by next March 2 and said it saw no grounds for acting earlier

Foreign Commissar Molotov also reiterated in the reply that the Soviet Union adheres unwaveringly' to the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin declaration in Teheran in 1943, which pledged the three countries to maintain the independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity of Iran."

The Russian note said the Iranian government's account of a so-called armed uprising in North-

FLU CASES CONTINUE TO DECLINE HERE

Better School Attendance Friday Than Early in Week.

The influenza situation in Marion city and county continued to improve today Both city and county schools reported attendance was better Friday than earlier in the week

In Union county three more schools closed, making five communities in all affected

In the state as a whole the picture was growing darker as the second death from influenza was reported North-eastern and eastern parts of the state still are the worst affected

FLU CASES STILL DECLINING HERE

The number of influenza cases reported in Marion city and county schools continued to drop as a check of the school offices today revealed that attendance in city schools yesterday was better than earlier in the week.

In the county schools, only two districts, Pleasant and Waldo reported attendance still below normal.

A basketball game scheduled between Prospect and Kirkpatrick was postponed until Tuesday in an effort to help check the spread of the disease. The game was to have been on the Kirkpatrick court.

The county figure was taken when six representatives of the Stassen and Bricker Names Get Favor at Chicago Parley of Leaders.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec 8—The names of Harold E Stassen of Minnesota and John W Bricker of Ohio popped up most frequently in lobby conversation about a 1948 GOP ticket as the Republican national committee prepared to act today on a congressional declaration of party policy.

A resolutions committee headed by Rep Carroll Reece of Tennessee scheduled a meeting to consider the interim platform, amid indications party leaders are set to squelch any criticism or additions

Not on Program

The discussion of potential presidential and vice presidential candidates went on, despite the fact the official program had no room for any such conjectures

Gov Dwight Green of Illinois was credited widely with having bid yesterday for at least a second-place spot on the ticket when he talked turkey to committee members about what the party ought to do to win the 1948 campaign.

Informal lobby conversations on possible candidates concerned themselves to a large extent with a half dozen men mentioned often in the past, including Gov Thomas E Dewey of New York who ran unsuccessfully last year

But J Russel Sprague New York national committeeman and 1944 adviser of Dewey told a reporter it is too early to talk about potential candidates

J Kenneth Bradley of Connecticut said he had heard a lot of talk among the Republicans about Stassen, former governor of Minnesota Stassen served as captain in the Navy and was one of the delegates to the United Nations conference in San Francisco

Mrs George T Gerlinger of Oregon said many in the northwest thought a ticket composed of Stassen and Bricker, former Ohio governor who was the vice presidential nominee in 1944, would 'make a fine combination." Several Republicans mentioned Bricker as possible top man for the ticket.

C-47 WRECKED WHILE LANDING DURING STORM

15 Army Men in Montana Tragedy; Several Had Dicharge Orders.

By The Associated Press

BILLINGS, Mont, Dec 8—Fifteen army men several of them under discharge orders, and two northwest airlines pilots were reported killed early today during a snow storm when their west bound plane a C-47 crashed and burned one mile west of Billings in a field

Names of the dead are being withheld until kin are notified

Eight men were taken to a Billings hospital, where the plane's pilot and six co-pilot died shortly afterwards Of the 23 on the plane six escaped death, but were in critical condition

The pilot was found pinned beneath the motor when the police arrived at the scene at 2 15 a m. (CST).

The crash occurred about 2 10 a. m when the army plane, approaching the Billings Municipal airport for a landing, apparently came in too low, caught a wing in the tops of the trees and nosedived into the field

Six bodies, charred beyond recognition were extracted from the smouldering, twisted wreckage

An investigation of circumstances surrounding the crash will be made immediately upon the arrival of air corps officers from Cincinnati, O., headquarters of an Army ferrying division, Major C. V Prossers said

Fog Hampers Navy Search for Airmen; Flares Raise Hopes

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Dec 8—A low fog hid reported clues today to the fate of possible survivors among 27 missing naval airmen as scores of planes hovered over the area between Orlando and Melbourne where flares and fires were seen last night

Land search parties in jeeps, "weasel" marsh buggies and amphibious alligators were rushing to the scene in the desolate marshlands in north Central Florida, the Navy in Miami reported.

Use All Facilities

"We don't want to get any hopes up too high, but we are moving everything up there to find those men if they are alive," Commodore H H J Benson of 7th Naval district headquarters told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview

The Navy announced that flares and a large fire were seen 20 miles apart in the desolate marshlands between Melbourne and Orlando shortly after 2 a m today and said search crews were being rushed to the scene in the hope of finding some survivors of 27 missing naval airmen

In addition, the Navy said, green flares were seen at 2 50 a. m today approximately 150 miles northeast of Great Abago Island in the Bahamas The Coast Guard cutter Pandora, one of scores of vessels flung into the great airsea search for the missing men, was reported approximately 60 miles away from the scene.

Sights Signals

The Navy said an Eastern Airlines pilot spotted red flares and flashing lights at 2 a m about 10 miles southwest of Melbourne, 190 miles north of Miami, and saw a man standing in the eerie light of the flares but no wreckage.

Five minutes later, the EAL pilot reported he saw a large fire burning between Melbourne and Orlando about 20 miles from the position of the flares.

Swiftly investigating the reports —the first possible clues to the mysterious disappearance of the five naval torpedo planes and the Martin Mariner bomber which set out to find the torpedo craft Wednesday night—the Navy dispatched a naval plane from the quarry Banana River station to fly over the area.

Smoke Word Dash

The pilot flashed back word at 3:30 a. m. that he also observed a flare some 15 miles inland.

Harding Five Loses 42 - 32 To Bexley in Home Opener; Visitors Never Give Up Lead

By BILL COULTER

In an attempt to gain their second victory of the season, the Harding Presidents were set back by a powerful Bexley quintet at the Edison gym last night 42-32. Free throws played an important role, as the visitors sank fourteen out of sixteen while Harding hit for but ten out of sixteen attempts.

attempts.

Gramlich led his Blue Lions with 16 points while his teammate Lewis connected for 12 to place second in scoring honors. Lance Feaver led the Prexy attack with nine points while Dick Holliday and Henry Fields each dumped in eight.

The Blue Lions proved too much for Harding as they combined a tight defense and some sharp shooting and led all the way. Harding made a valiant stab at the lead in the late minutes only to have their attempts snatched. The game got hot in the last period as Harding threatened and came within three points of the lead, the closest since the first few seconds of play.

Build Up Quickly

Bexley jumped right into the lead and continued holding a 13-8 advantage at the end of the first quarter. They managed to stretch this to 21-14 at half time and built up a 31-23 third quarter lead.

Bexley hit the nets for the first score with center Johnson making good a sucker shot. He was immediately followed by Gramlich who scored a push shot from directly in front of the basket. Harding got into the swing of things as Holliday swished the net for a sucker shot. Bexley added three more on a free throw by Lewis and a corner shot by Gramlich. Harding tallied again when Feaver took advantage of a free throw. Bexley manufactured four more points before the end of the initial period on a couple of buckets by Lewis and another push shot by Southworth. The Presidents hit for five, before the close of first quarter activities, scored on a long by Fields, a tip in by Dave Lee and a foul shot by Feaver

Give Up Points

Bexley got six of their eight points in the second period as a result of free throws. Five of the six were accounted for by Gramlich, who failed to miss a foul shot all evening. Zimmerman tallied the other free throw for Bexley and the field goal was registered by Lewis on a push shot from around the foul circle. Harding hit their opponents nets for six points in the second period, and four of these were from foul shots. Feaver tallied a brace of free throws followed by a nice dribble in shot by Don West after he sneaked in to intercept an enemy pass. Incidentally, West seemed to have the habit of breaking up Bexley's passes as he repeated his performance on a couple of occasions. Fields finished the Prexy scoring for the first half as he dropped in a couple of fouls, and at the end of the half, Bexley found themselves out in front 21-11.

Second Half Play

Harding broke the scoring ice in the third quarter when Feaver hit for a free throw. However, Bexley came right back as Gramlich made good a two pointer from the side of the court. The teams then swapped a pair of goals as Fields scored for Harding on a long, followed by a sucker shot from the hands of Bexley's Gramlich. Holliday then annexed another basket for Harding on a semi-long. Harding pushed in three more points before calling it quits for the third period on a push shot and a free throw by Jim Riley and a foul shot by Holliday. Gramlich put in a free throw and a sucker shot for Bexley. Lewis made good a pair of free throws for Bexley and Gramlich made the third quarter history when he sank another free throw.

In the final period Harding started to make things interesting as Holliday racked up a sucker shot and was immediately followed by Feaver who scored on the same type of shot. However Bexley momentarily cooled the fast-stepping Presidents as Susil dropped in a foul shot. Harding drove to within three points of their foe on the next play when Fields connected for a nice left handed pivot shot, the score now standing at 32-29. Lewis then laid in another free throw and Johnson connected for Bexley with a dribble in shot to dampen Harding's hopes. Feaver renewed the Prexy spark with a push shot. Lewis and Zimmerman squelched all Harding hopes with a pair of quick buckets. Holliday made the final Prexy point of the evening with a free throw offered to him by Lewis. Zimmerman scored another Bexley foul shot and Petty added a bucket just before the final gun ending the game at a 42-32 Bexley victory.

The junior varsity, like their big brothers came out on the short end of their game with the Bexley reserves 31-20. Zeller was high point man as he contributed 10 of Bexley's points. Herb Phillians was the Vice Presidents' high point man garnering six points.

Big Ten Approves New Title System

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 8—The Western conference, which many times has come up with deadlocks for championships in both football and basketball, is adopting a new system to determine titlists.

Champions always have been appointed, or nominated, by the press on a percentage basis.

From now on champions will be designated officially by Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, and in football he'll use a new formula to determine which is which. Deadlocked games will be recorded as half a victory and half a loss for both competing teams.

In basketball, overtime periods will designate the winner—or loser.

The decision was reached yesterday at a meeting of conference athletic directors and faculty representatives.

Snatches of Sports

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 8—You'd hardly expect to hear people talking about golf at a baseball convention, but two of this week's visitors who brought up the subject were Jack Corbett, former ball player and club owner, and Bill Kaiser, golfing executive of a sports goods firm. Corbett advanced the novel theory that baseball's hitters are better than they were in the good old days because they learn the golf swing.... "It's exactly the same," he maintained, "You just bring it up to where the ball is."

Dodger scouts who have been looking over players on the service list bring word that Stan Rojek, who played for Montreal before the war, may make the Flatbush faithful forget there ever was such a guy as Peewee Reese ... Art Rooney, the Pittsburgh promoter, has offered Ray Robinson $20,000 to fight Charley Burley in Pittsburgh. What's this story that some of Michigan's older maize and blues are building a fire under Fritz Crisler because of his "dictatorial attitude?"

Chilly Brushoff

When Marquette U. and St. Louis wound up their football season one chilly afternoon recently, Trainer Spike Dixon of Marquette met end Pancho Palesse coming off the field and started to give him the usual once over with a damp towel. Spike reached for the towel and it came up, bucket and all, frozen solid. You've heard of kicking the bucket plenty of times but that probably was the first recorded case of the bucket kicking back.

Redskins Face Giants in Big Clash Sunday

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 — Stout Steve Owen's upset- minded New York Giants are all that stand between the Washington Redskins and the eastern half title in the National Football league with tomorrow's contest at Griffith stadium slated to decide the issue.

Philadelphia, knocked out of a first-place deadlock by New York last week, winds up its regular season at home against Boston hoping the Giants give Washington a dose of the same.

If Washington wins or ties New York, it's all over and the 'Skins are eastern champions and will meet Cleveland for the league crown Dec. 16. If Sammy Baugh and Co. are defeated, Philadelphia can tie for first place and force a playoff by trimming the Boston Yanks. These are the only two scheduled contests on the final day of the season.

GREASY NOT ON SKIDS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 - Alexis Thompson, millionaire owner of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football league, today scotched rumors that Earle "Greasy" Neale was on his way out as coach.

Pleasant Nosed Out 41 to 39 in County Loop's Thriller; Flu Postpones Kirk Clash

The Marion County Basketball league jumped into the second week of activities with only five games being played last night. Waldo, Morral, New Bloomington, Claridon and Caledonia were the winners. The game between Kirkpatrick and Prospect was postponed until Tuesday night because of the influenza epidemic.

New Bloomington won the thriller of the night from Pleasant 41 to 39. Waldo turned the tables on Green Camp by winning 26 to 18. Morral eked out a win from an improved Martel outfit 24 to 22. Claridon took a rough and tumble match from LaRue 37 to 21. Caledonia thumped Meeker 30 to 16.

Coach Harry Alexander's veteran New Bloomington outfit found themselves trailing Pleasant at the end of the third period 31 to 29 but came back in the last session to tally 12 points to 8 for Coach Porter's scrappy team.

Nip and Tuck

The first period was nearly even as the score stood 9 to 8 in favor of the winners. The second session found Pleasant racking up 13 markers to take the lead at halftime 21 to 17. In the third canto New Bloomington cut the lead to 2 points to set up the winning fourth stanza. Harry Boles, New Bloomington forward, parted the strings for seven baskets and one charity toss to lead the point parade. Dutt led the Pleasant team with six buckets and two free throws. Tonight New Bloomington will take on the team from the Ohio School of the Deaf on the home floor. Game time is 7:30.

Claridon, after being held scoreless in the first quarter at LaRue and also trailing at the half 10 to 7, began to wear down the crippled LaRue team in the final half of a very rough game 37 to 21. Jim Ruth, Claridon's hot shot forward, led both teams with seven field goals and two foul shots for 16 points. Jones was high for the losers with seven points. The two LaRue forwards, Davis and Hodson playing on badly sprained ankles, were held to five points between them. Leeth, LaRue guard played the game after being in bed two days with influenza. Wickersham of Claridon had also been in bed with the disease raging in Ohio.

Waldo Gets Hot

Waldo outscored Green Camp in every quarter to mark up a 26 to 18 win. Johnson of Green Camp led the point makers as he garnered nine tallies to get half his team's total. Schultz led Coach Furniss's outfit with 8 points.

Morral led at all four stops last night but never by much margin to take a 24 to 22 joust from Martel. The Morral boys racked up nine points to five for Martel in the first quarter and were never headed thereafter. Martel got three to two for the winners in the second stanza and again in the third climbed to within two points of the Morral lads by getting four points to three for the winners. The last stanza was even as each team gathered in 10 points. Merritt led the point parade with seven and W. Loyer and Graf got six for the losers.

Reserve Scores

In the reserve games played last night Waldo triumphed over Green Camp 35 to 10; Morral J.V.'s took Martel 24 to 13; Pleasant second stringers got revenge for the varsity's loss by trouncing New Bloomington 20 to 11; LaRue reserves won a thrill from Claridon 27 to 23; and Meeker's Jr. High team took a 16 to 8 win from Caledonia.

Bowling Green Hops Two Foes 108 to 57

By The Associated Press

Bowling Green university's powerful basketball team bowled over two different opponents last night for the second time this season, scoring a total of 108 points to the losers' 57.

The Falcons first defeated Toledo Naval Separation Center, 42-28, and then Hillsdale (Mich.) college, 46-29. It was the fourth and fifth victories for Coach Harold Anderson's charges.

Another perennially strong cage team, Akron university, easily marked up its second victory of the campaign, by defeating Heidelberg, 82-26.

In other games last night Miami whipped Xavier, 41-35; Defiance topped Lawrence Tech, 52-47, and Fairmont (W.Va.) State Teachers edged Marietta, 51-43.

Bowling Green's scoring was evenly distributed among the 19 players seeing action in each game. Ace Don Otten was high point man in the first game with 10 points.

Last night's high scorer was Frank Wahl of Akron, former Air Corps lieutenant, who dropped in 11 field goals and two foul tosses for 23 points. The Zippers piled up 36 points in the last quarter.

Majors Heading for Parley As Minors Punch at Happy

By HAROLD HARRISON
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 8—Major league baseball magnates were Chicago-bound today, faced with the job of deciding whether to join the minor loops in clipping the powers of Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

The minors, who ended their biggest convention in history here yesterday, took three crashing swipes at Chandler's powers but all must be approved by the majors at their convention in Chicago next week.

The minors voted to take over post war baseball promotions, reorganization out of the commissioner's office and approved a proposal to take away from the commissioner the right to consider any major-minor league trade being "detrimental" to baseball. Yesterday they refused to approve their own bonus regulations. Chandler had called them "clean, unfair" and then voted to prevent both the majors and the minors from paying any bonuses for the signing of contracts.

The minors finished their three-day official sessions by turning over to the major leagues their approval of placing the Pacific Coast league in a major league classification.

Then the 1,178 registered delegates, guests and assorted baggage wearers stampeded back to their home cities and to Chicago.

As to the customary trades and sales of players—there wasn't much here but again it appeared as if the main show would be in the Chicago meeting.

The New York Giants, the Philadelphia Phillies and the Boston Braves generally were reported as ready to put out cash to strengthen their teams.

Biggest names on the sale or swap market appeared to be Jeff Heath and Ray Mack of the Cleveland Indians and Frank McCormick of the Cincinnati Reds plus a flock of the boys who helped bring the American league pennant and the world's championship to Detroit.

CAREY CAGERS OPEN WITH UPPER TUESDAY

Blue Devils Out To End County Seater's Jinx.

Special to The Star

CAREY—The Carey basketball season will open Tuesday night when the "Blue Devils" meet the Upper Sandusky Rams on their home floor. Coach "Doc" Reister has been drilling his team the past two weeks and has great hopes.

Wedge and Newell have been working at the forward posts and Bill Dennison will hold down the center slot. Bob Donelson and John DeAmicis, lone senior on the squad will team up as guards. John Berardinelli and Red Snowberger, forwards; Cole, six-foot-two freshman center, and Welly and Strahm, round out the varsity team.

The Upper Sandusky Rams opened their season Nov. 30, with a 36-30 win over Kenton and will have played two games when they enter the fray next Tuesday. They have defeated Carey in 10 straight games and the Blue Devils will be out to break their string.

Richwood Defeated at Urbana 45 to 36

RICHWOOD, Dec. 8—The Richwood Tigers traveled to Urbana last night and although losing to the larger team 45 to 36 made a very creditable showing.

Walker of Urbana led the scoring with eight fielders and two charity tosses for 18 points. Adams led the Richwood scoring with ten points. Frank, formerly a leading point maker for Kirkpatrick in the Marion County league, played for the winners and racked up nine points. The Richwood Reserves triumphed 28 to 20.

PIN CHAMP SLUMPS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 — Buddy Bomar of Chicago, who romped off with the national match game bowling crown last year, had a long way to go today to defend his title as the 16 finals in the big tournament moved into the last half of the 64-game competition.

Bomar was down in 13th place, 568 pins and 22.93 points behind leader Joe Wilman, the ex-soldier from Chicago who finished second last year. Wilman had a total of 6,819 pins and an average of 213 in 32 of the 64 games the finalists will roll. His Petersen point total was 161.19.

Shirley Temple Plays Role In "Kiss and Tell" at Palace

Picture on Screen of Theater Here Sunday Through Wednesday Has Comedy Turn.

"Kiss and Tell" starring Shirley Temple, Jerome Courtland and Robert Abel will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater.

Shirley Temple plays Corliss Archer, a famous character of the stage and radio, and Jerome Courtland portrays Dexter Hamilton, Corliss' next-door-neighbor boy friend. The hilarity of the mix-up affairs of the family-in-law when Corliss and her boy friend, Mildred, played by Virginia Welles, sell kisses for charity at a USO bazaar Corliss' mother unintentionally makes a remark about Mildred's character to her mother and the feud between the family begins.

The girls are told they must not see each other but they continue to secretly Corliss' brother, a lieutenant in the Army Air Corps, arrives home on leave and he and Mildred fall in love. They get married secretly and because of the feud, keep it a secret from everyone except Corliss. When Corliss is seen coming from an obstetrician's office with Mildred, she is put on the spot and is forced to tell them a different story in order not to betray her brother's confidence.

Thursday night, the Community Concert Association will present on the stage of the theater, Carroll Glen, violinist. This is the second in a series of three concerts to be presented.

Short features to be shown with "Kiss and Tell" are "Plastic Inventor," "Flicker Flashback," and the latest Paramount News.

A double feature, "That Night With You" starring Franchot Tone, Susanna Foster, David Bruce and Louise Allbritton, and "My Name Is Julia Ross" with Nina Foch and Dame May Whitty, will be shown Friday and Saturday.

In the former, the story revolves around a girl who dreams of starring on the stage while working as a waitress in a diner. Her first step in making her dreams come true is to win her way into the home of a famous theatrical producer. She makes him believe that she is his daughter by a long annulled marriage. She then has trouble with his secretary who hopes to marry her boss someday.

The latter tells the story of a young stenographer out of work who is hired as a resident secretary at a huge English country estate by its owners, only to discover that she is to be the victim of a plot to murder her as an alibi for the killing of the son's former wife.

News of the Day will be shown with the double feature.

"Thrill of a Romance" starring Van Johnson and Esther Williams, and "What a Blonde" with Leon Errol, Richard Lane and Elaine Riley, will be shown midnight Saturday through Monday at the Marion theater.

The former is the enchanting story of a beautiful swimming instructor who is rushed off her feet by a highly successful young business man, who while on their honeymoon, is called away to attend to a business deal. She then meets Van Johnson, who plays an Air Corps major on leave from service in the South Pacific. The latter is the story of a little man for whom everything goes wrong, thanks to his butler and a group of show girls who descend upon him.

"Divorce" starring Kay Francis and Bruce Cabot, and "Sensation Hunters" with Robert Lowery and Doris Merrick will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday.

In the former, Kay Francis plays a much-married divorcee a poised ruthless woman, who tries to break up the home of one of her childhood sweethearts. The latter is the story of a pretty young factory worker who is forced to leave home by the constant bickering of her family and goes to a nightclub with her sweetheart. She meets a man who has no source of income and is slowly drawn into his shady way of life.

"The Bullfighters" starring Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, and "Song of the Prairie" with Ken Curtis, June Storey and the Hoosier Hotshots will be shown Thursday through Saturday.

As a pair of misfit matadors south of the Rio Grande Stan and Ollie chase a blonde to Mexico City. In the latter, Ken Curtis decides to turn his ranch into a showplace and runs into money troubles. But his pals turn over all their cash to him and promise to get more.

"Too Young To Know" Now Playing Through Thursday Here.

"Too Young To Know" starring Joan Leslie and Robert Hutton is now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater.

This tells a genial tale of warmth and humor beginning with the gay courtship of Sally Sawyer, played by Joan Leslie, and Ira Enright, played by Robert Hutton, two youngsters with no more serious thought than having a good time. They decide to settle down to being man and wife, but their youth is a disadvantage. Sally had been planning to have a theatrical career and does not understand now why her former friends do not meet with her husband's approval. Ira, however, sees that this will be a threat to their marriage.

With neither of them understanding the other's problems, they have many disagreements and Ira walks out on Sally. Shortly after that, they are divorced. It then remains for a kindly and understanding judge to bring them together again, after many months of separation.

A short feature to be shown with "Too Young To Know" is "Star in the Night" starring J. Carrol Naish, Donald Woods and Rosina Galli.

This tells of three cowboys who see a bright star as they travel over the desert on Christmas eve carrying gifts they have just bought. The star turns out to be an electric light advertising the Star Auto Court. Here they meet Dusty, a hitchhiker, who is in trouble with the proprietor of the court.

"Danger Signal" starring Faye Emerson and Zachary Scott will be shown for four days starting Friday.

This intense drama which is complete with psychoanalysis, is of a thorough heel who specializes in seducing, robbing, and occasionally, murdering women. It rises to a high climax which makes a lot of excitement.

MOVIE STOCKS HIT NEW HIGHS

Buyers Concentrate on Picture Issues, Also Assorted Rails and Industrials.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—Buyers concentrated on amusements, assorted rails and industrials in today's brief stock market, lifting favorites to 15-year peaks on gains of fractions to 2 points.

It was another of the liveliest Saturday sessions since 1940, with volume for the two hours topping the 1,000,000-share level despite frequent slowdowns. The direction was upward from the start. Plus signs predominated near the close.

The apparently bright future for the movie makers when excess profits taxes are shelved, in addition to expectations that increased or reinstated dividends are a likelihood, accounted mainly for the popularity of this group.

Registering highs were Paramount Pictures, Loew's, Twentieth Century-Fox, R-K-O, N. Y. Central, Allied Chemical, Panhandle Producing, Electric Power & Light and Packard.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

Public Notice is hereby given that R. U. Dunn, d.b.a. Merchants Transfer & Storage Co., has filed with The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, an Application to Amend Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity No. 684 in the following particulars:

To transport cinders, coal and fine scrap iron on call of the public over irregular routes to and from any point in Marion County and to eliminate the following restriction in said Certificate No. 684:

"Against the transportation of dump trucks except the fleet of Marion County Motor Truck Service, except when the point of origin is Marion, Ohio."

Said Application also proposes to abandon Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity No. 2623 which authorizes operations between Columbus and Marion over U.S. Route 23 and the scrap iron on call of the public over irregular routes from and to any point in Marion County.

The proposed Amendment to Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity No. 684 and operations authorized under Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity No. 2623

DESCRIPTION OF ENTIRE TERRITORY OF CERTIFICATE NO. 684 UPON GRANTING OF APPLICATION

To transport property in interstate commerce on call of the public over irregular routes from and to Marion, Ohio, household goods, office furniture and fixtures in van equipment from and to any point in Marion County, Ohio, and also sand, gravel, slag, lime, dirt, stone, rock, crushed rock, fertilizer, cement, asphalt, cinders, coal, fine scrap iron, and road surfacing material in dump trucks upon and over irregular routes to and from any point in Marion County, Ohio.

Applicant proposes to use those units now certificated under Certificate No. 684.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I FELT my nerves quicken at Faith's unexpected outcry, and knew that every other person in the sitting room of our hotel suite was also tense, save only my mother-in-law, blissfully ignorant of the whole problem revolving about her idolized eldest granddaughter.

True, Noel also was ignorant of the existence of the photographs Georges had sent back to Mary, by me, an ignorance which Faith's garrulity threatened to dispel, but I knew that Dicky, Jack and Katharine, aware of the subterfuge which had taken Mary and me into the bedroom, were watching Noel covertly and fearfully, realizing that his ever-alert jealousy might prompt him to suspect that we were keeping something concerning Georges and Mary from him.

Appealing Glance

I caught a frantic, appealing glance from Mary's eyes, although her face and smiling lips mirrored only indulgence for Faith's wailing cry. But I knew that she did not dare to answer the child lest she say something which might twang a discordant note in Noel's temperamental score, and with a qualm of fear in my own heart, I answered my child's wailing protest.

"No darling, Daddy doesn't know anything about our secret. He was just guessing we had one. But he doesn't know what kind of secret it is."

Faith's sigh of relief appeared to come from her sole soles.

"Oh, I don't and we knowing what kind of secret it is!" she said, and I held my breath, as I knew Mary also was holding hers, in fear of what the child might say next.

"It's a Oh, such a secret, Daddy," she carolled, "but not for you. And it's something we've got to make, and I don't know if we've got time. It isn't very long until Christmas, you know."

"Is it for me Faith?" Noel asked with apparently intense interest. He is exceedingly fond of the child, and humors her on every possible occasion. His question relieved one fear—that he had any suspicion of the photograph situation camouflaged by the Christmas present excuse — but quickened another — that prolonged questioning of Faith might elicit some chance reference to the photographs which would arouse dangerous conjecture in his mind.

A Look of Contrition

But there was nothing I could do, for I knew I must not stop the child's answer to the question, so I waited helplessly, while Faith went up to Noel with a look of contrition on her face.

"I'm awful sorry, Cousin Noel," she said, "but it isn't for you I'm going to get you a Christmas present, though. I always do, you know."

"Yes, I know, little Sweetheart," Noel said fondly, "and I already have given Santa Claus something very special for you."

This is a family device with which we reconcile gifts to the children from the family with the Santa Claus myth. It worked beautifully with Junior, and Faith believes it implicitly. She counts some of her Christmas gifts as coming directly from Santa, himself, and thinks that the others have been given by various members of the family to the Christmas saint for placing around the big Christmas tree.

But I knew that I must put a stop to Faith's revelations, for the child's joyous "Oh, goody!" with which she greeted Noel's promise is always the signal for further enthusiastic chatter on her part.

"You mustn't talk any more about Christmas secrets now, Faith," I said with decision. You will be telling yours, the first thing you know. Go over to Daddy now and help him with his wheel chair. I have to tell Aunt Katharine and Uncle Jack something now."

"Okay!" the little girl said docilely, and with a pretty, smiling "Excuse me, please," to Noel, she climbed down from his knee.

Then she ran eagerly across the room into her father's outstretched arms. I knew that he would keep her safely occupied for the rest of Noel's stay, and I turned to Katharine and Jack with a smile.

"You'll be able to set up light housekeeping any minute now," I told them.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

Glandular Ailment

THE prostate gland which is present only in males is located in front of the bladder. It varies in size from one to one and three-eighths inches in length, is about the same in width and is almost an inch thick. It is not exactly clear just what use the prostate gland is in the body. It has been suggested that this gland may form a secretion which empties directly into the blood as do the secretions of both the thyroid and the pancreas.

Late in life, the prostate gland may enlarge, and then it causes troublesome symptoms. The disorder is known as prostatitis. Just why the gland enlarges is not known. The condition rarely occurs in men before the age of fifty or fifty-five years.

Some persons have the mistaken notion that an infection is responsible for this enlargement, but there is no evidence to indicate that is true. Tumors of the gland may also occur but such tumors are not the common cause of the enlargement.

Nevertheless, the enlargement may endanger the person's life because of the complications that may follow it. These complications are due to the blocking of the flow of the urine.

Blocking of the flow of the urine may sooner or latter lead to serious damage to the kidney and cause waste products to be retained in the blood instead of being eliminated. Furthermore, infection of the bladder is likely to develop. For these various reasons, it is important that a man with an enlarged prostate have treatment early in the course of the condition.

When enlargement of the prostate gland first occurs, there may be but few noticeable symptoms. However, as time passes, the symptoms become more severe. The most common symptom is increased frequency of emptying of the bladder, especially at night.

Then, pain and burning occur. Eventually, the point is reached at which the patient is unable to empty the bladder at all. If infection occurs there will be chills, fever and severe sweats.

As a general rule, some type of operative treatment is necessary to overcome the difficulty.

In modern times, removal of the prostate gland is accomplished without opening the abdomen. The operation is known as transurethral prostatectomy. With this there is a lower mortality rate, fewer complications and a shorter stay in the hospital.

First Aid To Ailing House

By Roger C. Whitman

FROST-PROOFING PLUMBING FIXTURE TRAPS

Q. What can I put into the traps of plumbing fixtures to keep them from freezing? The house will be unoccupied for weeks at a time during the winter.

A. After removing the water from the traps you can put kerosene into them. If you have a septic tank, you had better remove most of the kerosene from the traps before using the fixtures again. Too much of this liquid flushed down into the septic tanks may interfere with the bacterial action of the sewage matter.

CLEANING CLOGGED LEADERS

Q. One of our readers has sent us the following useful information on cleaning out a clogged leader, and I am glad to pass it along. "You dismantel the leader at a point a couple of feet above the ground. You then insert a garden hose into the leader and let the water run full force, and at the same time work the hose up and down. This tends to break up the hard mass of dirt and leaves, which runs out with the overflowing water. My leader was once stopped up for a distance of 10 feet. I cleaned it out in less than two hours."

SNOW FENCE

Q. I am interested in trying to find the proper way to erect a storm fence in relation to wind direction, driveway and garage. The library, the state and U. S. Departments of Agriculture have no bulletins on the subject.

To clean out a clogged leader, dismantle it a couple of feet from ground and insert garden hose. Run water full force and work hose up and down.

A. I do not know of any booklet or pamphlet on the subject either. Most of the fences are generally erected by experiment and observation. It is best to note where the snows usually drift, and then erect the fences several feet from where the drifts are apt to start.

FILLING NAIL HOLES

Q. The carpet on my hardwood floor is wearing out and I should like to replace it with rugs. But when the carpet was laid, the floor man drove many large nails in the floor and these will leave many holes. What can I do when I refinish the floor to eliminate the nail holes?

A. The holes can be filled with wood putty of the same color as the floor. After refinishing, they should not be noticeable.

REGULATORS ON BOILERS

Q. Does the regulator on a coal furnace that regulates the drafts have anything to do with the temperatures in the rooms upstairs? There is no thermostat in any of the rooms.

A. The regulator on top of a steam boiler does not have a direct control of the temperature in the room upstairs. Its purpose is to prevent a coal fire from building up excessive steam pressure. If temperature control in the rooms is required, a room thermostat should be installed.

EXPERT PLUMBING DIRECTION NEEDED

In planning the plumbing for a new home, or for the modernizing of an existing home, the choice of a plumbing contractor or master plumber is one of the most important decisions which the builder or owner must make.

It is wise to settle on who is to do the plumbing work while the plans are still in the dream stage. It is more satisfying to deal directly with the master plumber, who will be able of offer helpful advice on the planning and selection of the plumbing, than to have the plumbing in the general contract.

The advantage in dealing with a master plumber is that he takes full responsibility for the entire plumbing installation, the invisible as well as the visible part.

Because such a vital part of the plumbing—the supply, waste, and vent piping—is concealed behind the walls and under the floors, it is doubly important for the owner to be assured of the competency and reliability of the man in charge of the plumbing installation.

Another advantage in dealing with a master plumber is the fact that he has a valuable background of knowledge, skill, and experience.

The master plumber is familiar with local codes and ordinances governing plumbing work; he has a practical knowledge of the metals and materials required for a complete plumbing installation; and he is familiar with the basic principles of engineering and hydraulics which apply to plumbing work.

This knowledge enables him to lay out and supervise the instillation of a plumbing system so that it will be safe, economical, durable, and easy to maintain.

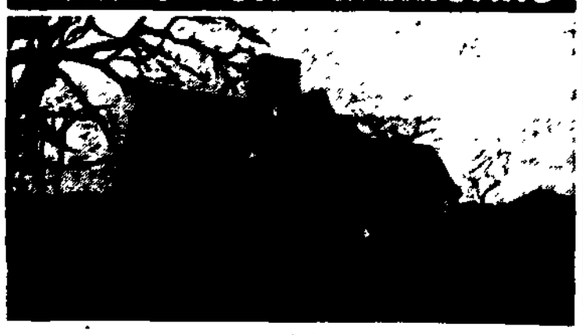
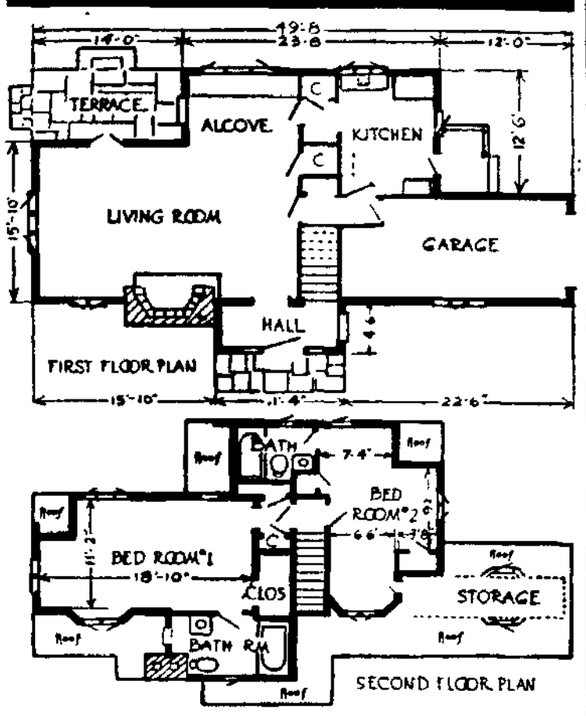
HOMES FOR AMERICANS





WHY WASTE COAL?

One of a series of articles intended to help solve heating problems and conserve fuel.

The balancing of the gravity-type warm-air heating plant, so that every room gets the proper portion of the heat is usually a simple matter in most homes. Sometimes, however, one room will be found difficult to heat, because it is too far from the furnace, or because there is no way for the cold air to get out of the room.

This condition can be corrected by adjusting the turn dampers placed in every warm-air pipe near the furnace. Partially close the damper in the rooms that are heated too much, and open wide the damper leading to the poorly heated room. This should correct the difficulty.

If the system has only one or two cold air returns, it may be necessary to leave the door of an ordinarily inadequately heated room open so the colder air in the room will have an opportunity to reach the cold-air return. If leaving the door open is impracticable, it may be necessary to install a separate cold-air return to the room in question. Any heating contractor can do this at reasonable cost.

Another method of curing this trouble is to install a small booster fan in the warm-air register of the inadequately heated room. Fans built especially for this purpose will draw warm air from the furnace and force it into the room.

(Copyright, Appalachian Coals)

Until the latter part of the 19th century, Brazil was the world's greatest producer of tobacco.

This free interpretation of the small, low-studded English cottage is intended either for a couple with no children or with, at most, two children, says the architect, George F. Root III (101 Park avenue, New York City). The space, while condensed, is all utilized and access to all areas of the home from other rooms is easy.

The integral garage is accessible from both the living room and the kitchen and its entrance is concealed from the approach. Root says yawning garage doors too often greet the visitor.

The construction is frame, sheathed and covered with cement stucco, adzed oak half-timber and natural-butt chestnut siding at the entrance with roof of cedar shingles. There are steel casement sash in individual oak frames, rockwool insulation and plank flooring.

The house needs a 100-foot lot preferably of slightly sloping terrain.

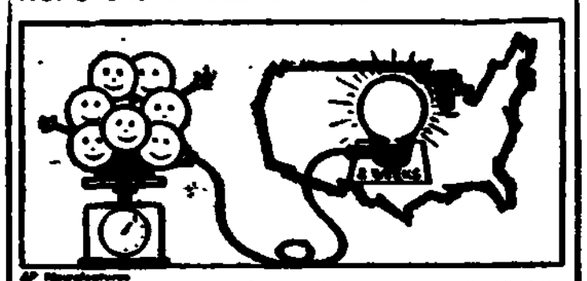
CLASS HAS YULE PARTY

The Philathea class of Emanuel Lutheran church held a Christmas party and gift exchange Wednesday evening with Mrs Karl Dune on Mt. Vernon avenue. A 6 o'clock potluck supper was followed by the meeting with devotions in charge of Mrs Mabel Pletcher. Christmas poems were read by Mrs John Loeffert and Mrs. P. E Meddles and two vocal selections were given by Lenore Dune. Mrs William Sibberson won the guessing box and Mrs. Morris Bodell was enrolled as a new member.

ATOMIC SECRETS

NO. 2—ENERGY EQUALS MASS



AP Illustrations

FIRST key to eventual splitting of the atom was the Einstein theory, developed 40 years ago, which showed mathematically that the energy (urge) within an atom was equal to the mass (weight) of a substance in grams, multiplied twice by the speed of light (186,000 miles per second) measured in centimeters. Since everything is made up of trillions and trillions of interlocking atoms, this meant that a pound of anything, lead or feathers even, contained latent energy equal to 10 billion kilowatt hours of light socket electricity. (That's equivalent to the entire U S electric power output for about two weeks.) Only way to get at this energy was to split the atom, but no one knew how.

THE CHRISTMAS DINNER DANCE of the Nice to Dance club will be held Wednesday evening, Dec. 12 in the Hotel Harding ballroom. Dinner will be served at 7:30. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Donltnen are chairmen of the committee in charge of arrangements. Assisting them are Mr. and Mrs. Merle Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. William Hamor, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. E. Paul Barbian, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Frew and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sloan.

MISSES IRENE AND GRACE EPLAR of East Church street were hostesses when members of the Quest club met for their annual Christmas party Thursday evening. For the program hour Miss Lucile Foreman gave the story, "Blueberry Corners," by Lemski and the group sang Christmas carols. The group sent several subscriptions to current magazines to veterans hospitals as Christmas gifts. Mrs. Jewel Hanna and Mrs. Elsie Orr were welcomed as members of the club.

Plans for a Christmas dinner were made when members of the Child Culture League met Thursday evening with Mrs. Harry Crowner of Summit street. The dinner will be held Dec. 20 at the home of Mrs. A. H. Dowler of St. James street.

Theme of the program was "Esthetic Education." Two papers, "Beginning of Art For Children" and "Music—A Need or A Fad" were read by Mrs. Charles Dengler. She also read an original skit entitled "Seeing the Beautiful," written by her daughter, Marilyn Dengler. Mrs. Ralph Williams was awarded the contest prize. Plans were announced for a radio program to be presented over WMRN Wednesday at 3 p. m. Theme for the program will be "Etiquette for Parents." Participating will be Mrs. Ralph Williams, Mrs. Willis Dixon, Mrs. A. H. Dowler, Mrs. V. D. Felt and Mrs. W. E. Smith.

The annual Christmas exchange party of the Wizard Wisdom club was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. William Bogart of West Columbia street. Mrs. Arthur Wick served as assistant hostess. The dinner was served in candlelight with the table decorations in keeping with the Christmas season. The names of secret sisters were revealed during the exchange. Mrs. Clarence Briggs and Mrs. Forest Smith were in charge of the program. Mrs. Ross Casteel led devotions. Two papers, one on "Palestine," the other on "Jerusalem," were read by Mrs. Ralph Gerfen and Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Harlos Moyer led the group in singing Christmas carols. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Moyer of Waldo on Jan. 2 instead of on the regular meeting night.

Mrs. Charles Noonan was a guest when the Cosmos club met for a Christmas party and 1 o'clock luncheon Thursday at Ringer's Inn. A gift exchange was held and later tables were filled for euchre. Awards were won by Mrs. Lloyd Augenstein and Mrs. Freda Albert. Mrs. Augenstein received the traveling award.

Mrs. B. M. Sager of Woodrow avenue was hostess for a meeting of the Y. M. B. club Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Bertha Irion received a guessing box award. Mrs. Oliver Brotherton of Delphos and Mrs. Irion were guests. Plans were made for Christmas exchange in two weeks.

Mrs. M. F. Bishop entertained the Fortnightly Study club at her home on Merkle avenue Thursday night. Mrs. Carl Haberman, chairman of the program committee conducted a review of the lives of Handel and Bach and played several selections by each composer. A musical quiz followed with honors going to Mrs. James Ralston and Mrs. William Spath. Devotions were conducted by the hostess and members responded to roll call with names of favorite hymns. Mrs. Clyde Born was a guest. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Plans were made for a Christmas exchange party to be held Dec. 20 at the home of Mrs. Roland Augenstein on Windsor street.

Pictured above is Mrs. Delmar Risch who exchanged marriage vows with Delmar Risch Sunday, Dec. 2. The ceremony was performed in the Prospect Street Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. Henry Maag. Before her marriage Mrs. Risch was Miss Lucille Rasey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rasey of near Prospect. Mr. Risch is the son of Commissioner and Mrs. William Risch of near Marion. For the present they are making their home with his parents on the Pleasant Hill pike.

Miss Leota Click was hostess to the D-8 club at her home on South High street Thursday night. Auction bridge was played with honors going to Mrs. William Schott and Miss Ruth Murphy. Mrs. James Brown Jr. was consoled. Miss Eloise Overholt was a guest. Plans were made for a Christmas dinner and exchange at Hotel Harding Dec. 13. Refreshments were served from tables decorated with holiday greenery by the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. Vesta Click.

The Cinderella Euchre club met Thursday night with Mrs. Clifford Borland on Sheridan road. First award in euchre went to Mrs. Howard Rizer, second to Mrs. J. N. Bonner, low to Mrs. Harold Coffey, lone hand to Mrs. Tom Temple and galloping to Mrs. Harold Everly. Plans were made for a Christmas party and gift exchange to be held Thursday evening at Hotel Harding. The next meeting will be in two weeks with Mrs. Clifford Rupp on Barnhart street.

Mrs. Ruth Thomas of Greenwood street entertained members of the Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Chi sorority Tuesday evening. Miss Mamie Silcock of Canada, a member of the Nu Phi Mu sorority attended as a guest. Miss Joan Austin discussed the "Evolution of Drama" during the program hour.

Ohio State Leads Record Grid Boom

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—College football, first sport to complete an entire season under post-war conditions, touched off the anticipated box office boom with a total attendance of 7,926,823, an increase of 42 per cent over 1944, in a survey of 79 representative major schools.

Based purely on home turnstile totals, Pennsylvania continued to show the way with a Franklin field gate of 477,000 for eight contests. In overall home and away figures Ohio State's 544,499 for nine contests was the best in the nation. Ohio State was second to Pennsylvania in home totals with 377,327 fans for six tilts at Columbus.

MARINE KILLED IN CHINA

By The Associated Press

TIENTSIN, Dec. 8—American Marines fired 24 60-millimeter mortar shells into a Chinese village near Anshan on Dec. 4 after one Marine had been killed and another seriously wounded by Chinese gunmen, Marine Maj. Gen. Keller Rockey, Third Amphibious Corps Commander, said today. Firing into the village was ordered, he said, after the two gunmen who shot the Marines "in cold blood" had not been surrendered to Americans.

CIRCLE PLANS TULE DINNER

Mrs. E. W. Imbody entertained the service circle of the Child Conservation League at her home on Concord avenue Thursday afternoon.

Included on the program were a paper "Place of God in Education" by Mrs. W. E. Orcutt and "Religions Goes to Movies" by Mrs. Edward F. Huber.

It was voted to contribute to the Tubercular Clinic. Plans were made for a Christmas dinner and exchange at Detrick's Inn Dec. 20, with Mrs. Don DeLong as chairman of a committee composed of Mrs. Harold Jacobs, Mrs. Elmer Parish and Mrs. Cecil Gabler. Refreshments were served from a candlelighted table, decorated in keeping with the season, by Mrs. W. K. Tobin, president.

XENIA MAN TO CLAIM ESTATE OF BROTHER

Symian F. Gillman Is Only Known Heir to Bonds.

Symian F. Gillman, 52, of Xenia, brother of the late Dave Everett Gillman, 59, of 202 Hughes avenue, who died suddenly Dec. 1, will come to Marion next week to claim his brother's estate, Theodore P. Frericks, administrator of the estate, said today.

Mr. Frericks said the sheriff at Xenia has little doubt the right man has been found. Both Gillmans had similar occupations and habits. Symian Gillman, a resident of Greene county for 45 years, was at one time in the Greene county Children's Home, where an accurate record of his birth and parentage is on file.

First search for heirs to the $4,900 in war bonds left by the Marion man was directed at Xenia when it was thought a fourth cousin, Louis Lambert, lived there. Another brother, William, died in Dayton three years ago.

Symian Gillman, like his brother a basket maker, lives alone and has been ill recently. He was overlooked in the original search.

Funeral services for Dave Gillman were held Thursday at 2:30 p. m. in the Edwin K. Smith Home for Funerals with Rev. Joel Harmon, pastor of the First Pilgrim Holiness church officiating. Burial was made in the Marion cemetery.

2 Marion Men Have Reunion in Germany

A surprise week-end visit recently with Pfc. Kenneth G. McKee as the visitor and Sgt. John William Loeffert as the host gave those two young men their first reunion since the fall of 1943 when they were inducted. The visit occurred in Germany where they both are stationed. McKee is assigned to a unit at Neckersulm, Germany, Loeffert with the army of occupation at Markthiedenfeld, Germany.

According to reports to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McKee of 234 Elm street and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Loeffert of 140 North Greenwood street, McKee had planned the week-end visit in one of his regular letters to his friend, but he arrived before the letter. Loeffert was assigned to guard duty so when he reported, McKee kept him company.

The two men were close friends before their graduation from Harding High school in 1943. Both were inducted that fall.

Pfc. McKee, overseas since July of 1944 has three battle stars for action in the Rhineland, Central Germany and the Battle of the Bulge. Sgt. Loeffert went overseas last February and has one star for the liberation of Pilsen, Czechoslovakia. While on furlough in Switzerland recently, Sgt. Loeffert called his parents long distance.

Newsprint Cost Up Six Dollars Per Ton

By The Associated Press

WASHINTON, Dec. 8. Newsprint ceiling prices have gone up $6 a ton, effective Dec. 11, the OPA announced yesterday.

The agency said that while the newsprint was put under price control in March, 1943, at $50 a ton, "the ceiling was raised $4 a ton on March 1, 1943, another $4 on United States newsprint prices March 29, 1945.

The increase is the fourth since the purpose of the increase is to assure prices that are generally fair and equitable," it also should operate to check further increases.

The ceiling will be $67 a ton. There are different ceilings for deliveries in 10 specified zones.

"This action, which has been gradually declining for some years."

For standard newsprint delivered to 38 port cities the new ceiling will be $67 a ton. There

FORTY YEARS of PROGRESS

For forty years we have been serving the needs of Marion and North Central Ohio.

From the very beginning of our company in 1905, our services have been called upon through all phases of the business cycle: prosperity, depression, recovery and war and now postwar.

It has always been our policy to advise people in a straightforward manner about products or engineering problems, even at the expense of losing a sale, believing that sound advise is the very basis of good service.

As soon as the reconversion period gets well under way we will display the latest in modern home conveniences: Bathroom and Kitchen Equipment; Heating Devices and a host of other items allied with our general lines.

You will be doing yourself a great favor to investigate all phases of your remodeling program before actually starting construction. You will save many hours of costly disappointment.

Many of the items in our lines are almost non-existent at present because of difficulties encountered in the manufacturing stage.

WE WILL WELCOME THE OPPORTUNITY TO TALK OVER YOUR PLUMBING PROBLEMS WITH YOU, YOUR CONTRACTOR OR SERVICE MAN. LET OUR FORTY YEARS OF PROGRESSIVE SERVICE IN NORTH CENTRAL OHIO BE YOUR GUIDE IN PLANNING YOUR KITCHEN, BATHROOM OR ENTIRE PLUMBING SYSTEM.

Another Drop in the Bucket

THE unanswered question implicit in all loans the United States will make in its role of creditor nation is whether this government is sufficiently skillful to protect the national interest.

The four and a half billion dollar loan to Great Britain which has been so long in negotiation will sharpen misgivings. Some of our ablest financiers, notably Bernard M. Baruch, recently have been advising a complete review of national assets, with a view to more intelligent stewardship. The fact is that loans to other governments carry within themselves not only benefits, if wisely made, but the seeds of disaster if they are unwisely made. It is necessary only to recall some of the loans made after World war to understand why—and most of those loans were from private capital, as compared with the public money involved now. John Foster Dulles, speaking as a student of international affairs, points out that America's bounty must be used wisely or it will be wasted. He declares there is danger of increasing ill-will with our desire to be helpful, unless we calculate carefully the effect of our loans.

Contrary to a political credo common in Washington since March 4, 1933, the United States does not have unlimited resources. It must earn its way. Every billion dollars put out on loan for the benefit of other societies, even though an indirect benefit for the United States always is stressed, comes from taxes levied on the people and must be repaid by the people if the debtor defaults. The government is taking terrific responsibility in every decision it makes on whether or not to add one more drop to a bucket in which the vast majority of drops now are marked "Made In America."

Yamashita's gesture of winding his wristwatch while his death sentence was pronounced may have been merely an attempt to appear nonchalant or possibly he had just come to realize the full significance of a timepiece to him during the days ahead.

Mr. Roosevelt's Man

AS the Hurley story unfolds and more is learned about the reasons for the recently resigned ambassador's charge that state department employes were disloyal to him in China, one fact will become more noticeable.

Patrick J. Hurley, whose name was associated with the Roosevelt administration and World War II continuously from the beginning of the war, was secretary of war under President Hoover. As secretary of war, he chose Douglas MacArthur to be chief of staff, passing over many other generals in line for the post.

Mr. Hurley is a self-made man, the possessor of a fortune accumulated by his own wits. Before war began, he was a bitter opponent of the New Deal. However, because of his personal ability and unquestioned loyalty, he was chosen by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt to perform a number of ticklish missions for the United States. He was sent to Australia to try to get relief supplies for United States troops trapped on Bataan. He was U. S. minister to New Zealand, when help was needed there for prosecution of the war in the South Pacific. In 1942 he was sent to Moscow for talks with Premier Stalin. In 1943 he carried out confidential assignments in the Near East and Middle East. He went to China as Mr. Roosevelt's personal representative in midsummer of 1944. He became ambassador when Clarence E. Gauss resigned late that year. In all his diplomatic service, Mr. Hurley was Franklin D. Roosevelt's man, which may go far toward explaining what is happening to him now.

Here's hoping that when the Big Three do get together again they'll earn the right to continue being referred to as big.

One Foot in the Air

THE navy department's policy of matching aviators and sailors in its chain of high command is a dignified admission that the airplane is here to stay. For the ultraconservative Navy, that's pretty radical.

Actually the Navy probably has gone as far as anyone can expect it to go by making inclusion of a certain number of air officers mandatory in high headquarters. It is a good deal as if the Army were to require that every officer trained in the uses of infantry were to be offset by at least one officer trained in the uses of airplanes. Or it is as if some years ago the war department had announced that henceforth every cavalry officer were to be accompanied by one officer convinced that the internal combustion engine was the coming thing.

The absurdity inherent in any division of aviators and non-aviators is the fact the division is purely arbitrary. In the sea war which the Navy has just fought, ships and planes were so closely intermingled that they were inseparable. It was the same in land war. Yet, the air fighters—being newcomers and perhaps a bunch of upstarts who make a hobby of getting into the hair of men who learned their trade without bothering about danger overhead—are obliged to accept as a matter of concession what is theirs as a matter of right.

U. S. Loan To Britain

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Lippmann Points to Benefits for Both Countries.

IF THERE is any difficulty in either country, it will not be because the men who have negotiated the British-American agreement are withholding information about it. The difficulty is not at all in any other negotiations, the mystery and secrecy but the contrary. We have enough people who have the trouble to listen to the information and the explanations which the men who worked out the agreement are putting out.

The official debates in Washington lasted 12 weeks and they were preceded by informal discussions in London and in Washington over a period of many months. They have been private, but they have not been secret.

They have been private in the sense that neither the British nor the Americans have made public statements until the day arrived when they had argued out all differences. But there has never been a time when a member of congress or a journalist or any one else in public life could not get a full explanation of what were the problems, the issues, the alternative solutions, the political difficulties.

The proof is that except on a few details which were added in the last hours, there are no surprises in the agreement, nothing of importance which has not been forecast and reported.

Method

We are allowing the British government to borrow up to three and three-quarter billions over a period of about six years. They will use it as a working capital, chiefly to buy food and raw materials until their industries have been reconverted from war and can again earn the money abroad to pay for what Britain must buy abroad.

If we are giving up anything or are losing anything here, then so also is any banker who extends a line of credit to a productive business which is expected to be earning its way with a profit. No one thinks the banker is losing, conceding, or performing an act of charity, and neither are we when we provide working capital to a country which is as productive as Britain.

Nor have the British conceded anything to us which would have made them better off if they had not. They are paying for this money a very little less than what the United States government will pay our peoples for this money.

No doubt it would seem easier if they did not have to pay for it at all. But in fact it would be harder. For their whole position in the world, what they think about themselves and what the world thinks about them, would have been lowered if they had emerged from the war as dependents of the United States.

They get from the transaction not only the working capital they must have immediately but also something which is of infinite value to any great international trading community. A mutual recognition of their own inherent solvency.

Benefits

There is no doubt that the benefits of the agreement go far beyond the immediate financial effects of the credit itself.

The arrangement makes it possible to open up trade between and within the regions of the world where the dollar and sterling are international money. These regions do at least half of all the international business of the world. This is enough to make it reasonably sure that a relatively free rather than a closely and narrowly regimented system of trade shall survive, and flourish well enough to hold its own, and in the end to prevail.

If Britain and America went their separate ways which would have to happen if this agreement failed, then there would be no conceivable way of maintaining any kind of free economy in the world. The world would become divided into small economic regions, bureaucratically controlled, and no amount of speech-making about free enterprise would then save free enterprise.

By our aid the countries of the sterling area, together with the United States, Canada and the countries which have dollars or the equivalent, are the mainstays of the international economy. This fact makes the loan to Britain a wholly different proposition from loans which may be asked for countries like Russia or China. The British loan is indispensable to us if there is to be a system of world trade to which our own economic system is suited. In the last analysis, though the money goes to the British government and will help the British people through some of their immediate difficulties, it is an investment by the United States to restore and perpetuate that system of world trade which we believe in.

Loans to Russia and to China must rest on radically different considerations. Russia and China are not now great factors in world trade. They may become great factors. But they are not so now. It is possible to resume world trade without their immediate participation. Without Britain it is not possible.

ture. (Few Americans do.) Here's Nee's version of how it was worked.

"You never saw two more model prisoners. They were grateful, polite, obsequious. But when it came down to the particular information we wanted—the location of Japanese headquarters in that area—they just smiled and bowed and said they didn't know. We knew of course that they did.

"When every effort to trip them up by questioning had failed we got an idea. We had taken pictures of them soon after they were captured. I called for prints of these pictures showing them with their American and Chinese guards.

Pictures Get Results

"See these pictures, I told them. We are going to have thousands and thousands of prints made and the next time the bombers go over Kobe and Yokohama, we will drop these pictures for your families and friends.

"In a wink, both of them started hissing 'No, No Don't. We will tell you everything you want to know.' And they did.

"I asked one question of scores of prisoners," Rhule added. "Are you going back home when the war is over? Invariably the answer was 'No I am dead.' And so far as their families are concerned they are. Funerals had been held for them. They had been glorified as heroes who had given their lives for the Emperor and Japan. If they should return after that, they would face a disgrace worse than death.

"The Jap soldier," Rhule stated, "is, in my estimation, the best disciplined soldier in the world.

"When guilty of looting and brutalities it is because his commanding officer has ordered it. When ordered to behave himself he does."

"In Canton, for example, our little handful of guerillas went in immediately after V-J Day. The Jap commander there, with 12,000 troops could not surrender. Yet before official word was delivered from the Emperor, not one of our men was molested. The answer, orders. The war criminals in Japan are the officers—the soldiers just did what they were told."

The Ultimate Power

By Raymond Moley

THE MURRAY-GREEN objections to the Truman fact-finding and cooling-off plan are quite understandable. Labor wants its road to government to continue as a one-way street. Despite their assorted differences, Messrs. Green and Murray are united on a policy of getting as much from government as possible, but of avoiding any restraints by government. That is the principle of the Wagner act and most other national labor legislation.

Then emotion rises also from a genuine fear of that course of action which government may take when all other measures fail—compulsory arbitration. Life must go on in a nation, and the ultimate power is government. The president is the head of that government.

Those who have seen the presidency at close hand all testify to the lonely sense of responsibility which hovers over the White House. The president lives with an awe-inspiring sense of ultimate power. He rises with it in the morning and goes to sleep with it at night. He can see any one and ask advice of every one. But finally he alone must decide. Even a weak president comes to realize this.

Load Is Heavy

It is a heavy load to carry. Probably no one else in the world, except Stalin, feels that burden. And even Stalin has a firmly knit political party to share his responsibilities. Presidents inevitably bow down and grow old under this pressure. Some of them break under the strain. All emerge from it changed and sobered.

In seeking to free presidential compulsive powers, votes and angle for all sorts of minorities. They create obligations and later try to pay for them. They know, most of them that roughly half the people want to put them out of office and will try to do so at the first opportunity.

But the force of circumstances compels a president to realize that he is really the servant of all the people. He can not act merely as the agent of a part of the people, because he can never be quite sure which part of the people is his support.

When as in the present instance, it becomes crystal clear that the vital interests of the whole country are being endangered by the failure of two powerful minorities to agree, he must regardless of consequences, stand against those minorities and serve a general interest. And he must be the single judge of what he shall do. At an ultimate moment all his advisers and subordinates are silent. The Great White Father must decide. And sometimes wisely and sometimes unwisely, he stops counting reasons pro and con and almost literally shuts his eyes and ears and does decide for better or for worse.

Mr. Truman has made a decision of that sort now. Assuming that congress agrees, he has pushed the power of government deep into the field of private initiative and decision. If another step must follow, he will be the one to decide what that step shall be.

The current decision is, in effect, that a great industry, despite lively commercial competition within itself, is a single sphere of production because in the words that sphere is a single united body. With such power as is possessed by the CIO, the AFL or the United Mine Workers, the issue of an industrial strike has got out of private hands and the government of all the people must move in. That is the essence of the Truman decision, and it may well be the end of an epoch.

THEY START WITH A ROAR, BUT—

Two Experts in Espionage

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—Any day now, a small, compact fellow with a deceivingly mild manner will report back to his job on the county police force at Springfield, Ill.

Already a tall, curly-haired, athletic young man has taken his chair behind the treasurer's and advertising director's desk in a Washington, D. C., furniture store that bears the family name.

Between them they carry the memories of one of the strangest Odyssey's of this war. More than 12 months of espionage and sabotage as leaders of guerilla fighting behind the Japanese lines in China's bloody, stinking, but highly productive rice bowl.

The first is Lt. Comdr. Meredith J. "Muddy" Rhule, late of OSS-SACO (Office of Strategic Services-Sino American Cooperative Organization), commander of a six-man demolition team, and later trainer and commander of a band of Chinese guerillas that harried the Japanese all the way from Liuchow to Canton.

The second is Lt. Maury Nee, ex-Georgetown University football star and a former member of Rear Admiral Milton E. "Mary" Mile's "naval group" which started out to prick the enemy along the Jap-held coast of China and ended with behind-the-lines land operations deep inside China. Part of the time Nee was with Rhules' command, for although lines were drawn at the top defining commands and operations, it was a different story in the field where the men worked as a team.

In SACO (aptly pronounced socko), the men were partially under the direction of one of China's wiliest espionage and sabotage experts, Gen. Tai Li, who bore the high-sounding Chinese army title of chief of the bureau of investigation and statistics.

Help Save Air Base

For two months following Sept. 6, 1944, Lt. Rhule was in command of a demolition team of four officers and two enlisted men operating behind enemy lines between Kweilin and Tungtao. By destroying or damaging 125 bridges, tunnels and ferries, among numerous other things, the team was responsible in large measure for saving the vital air base at Chichiang.

After only 18 days of rest, Rhule infiltrated the enemy lines again as commander of a guerilla band of 100 Chinese and five Americans, which was active from Nov. 23, 1944 until Aug. 15, 1945, when it moved into Canton, still held by 12,000 Japanese troops, whose commander refused to surrender.

In these Liuchou-Canton operations, Rhules command killed more than 700 Japanese, including 23 officers; wounded 400 more; destroyed or damaged 75 trucks, armored cars, etc.; blew up three important bridges and assassinated the puppet governor of Liuchow.

Perhaps some day there will be whole books outlining operations behind the Japanese lines in China of such men as Lt. Cmdr. Rhule and Lt. Nee.

Lets hope that the authors get to the participants while memories are still fresh concerning one of the strangest operations of the war—how the Americans and Chinese who drifted through the Japanese lines in China and made life for the Japanese conquering armies a hell on earth.

Both Rhule and Nee are masters of understatement. They talk of slipping through the nebulous Japanese lines as if it were a Sunday afternoon stroll. They talk about living for days on rice and red peppers as if it were dinner at the Waldorf.

No Food Problem

Food, they insist, was never a problem. Even when supplies were parachuted to them, along with guns, munitions and explosives, it was welcome principally because it provided variety. The Chinese natives, the coolies, for whom both Rhule and Nee have high praise, never left them wanting for something to eat.

"In the field, among the farmers and small-townsmen, I have never seen any people around the world that I would rather count as friends or in whose loyalty I would have greater faith," says Nee. The quiet Rhule nods vigorously at this.

Rhule's reticence about the sensational operations of his command behind the Jap lines is aggravating. Pressed to tell about the assassination of Luichow's puppet governor which he directed, he said simply:

"Well there really wasn't very much to it. Some thought he should be bribed, but it was decided that that would be too dangerous to our agents and the only solution was assassination. I moved my headquarters up to just outside Luichow and sent three Chinese disguised as coolies into the city. They parked outside his residence for some days; learned all his habits; and then choosing one of these times when he always came in alone, they emptied a 22-automatic pistol, equipped with a silencer into him and walked out of town.

Just as simple as that.

Thoroughly Schooled

Reams of fact and fiction have been written about making prisoners of war talk but none was stranger or more effective than that employed by Rhule and Nee in their behind-the-lines operations in China.

Both men were products of the Office of Strategic Services espionage, sabotage and guerilla warfare schools. Both knew all the brutal methods used by the Nazis and the Japanese.

With two Japanese prisoners in their hands, Rhule and Nee were faced with the problem of getting valuable information out of them. They didn't like the idea of torture.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Dec. 8, 1935.

"Universal Bible Sunday" was observed in Forest Lawn Presbyterian, Trinity Baptist and the Prospect Street Methodist churches, the occasion marking the four-hundredth anniversary of the printed English Bible.

Adjutant and Mrs. W. W. Hinshaw of Athens conducted the services at the Salvation Army hall over the week-end. Seven persons responded to an altar call. Adjutant and Mrs. John Hunter, heads of the corps, visited the outposts at Richwood and the Smeltzer school south of the city.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McKim at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Neidig of 320 Patterson street.

Mrs. Sophia M. Kreis, 62, wife of Joe Kreis of Cardington, died of apoplexy shortly after she was taken ill while attending services at St. Paul's Lutheran church at that place where she was to take part in a program.

Officers and representatives of the Ohio Federation of Music Teachers, of which Mrs. Harold K. Mouser was president, met at Hotel Harding to outline plans for the annual state convention scheduled to be held here the following day.

Burglars stole a woman's purse containing approximately $8 from the home of Ray Holliday of 281 Chestnut street, while the family was at supper. Entrance was gained through the front door, which was unlocked.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, Dec. 3, 1925.

Mrs. Gladys Randall was elected councilor of Mary A. Canfield Council No. 210, Daughters of America.

A total of $930 was reported in the sale of Christmas Health seals sponsored by the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs, by Mrs. George T. Geran, chairman of the sale.

A new record in the number of children at the Marion County Children's home was established when the total reached 72, it was reported by Superintendent Carl F. Digel. Of that number 40 were boys.

"The Influence of the Christian Church in National Life" was the subject of a talk given by Representative H. Edmund Hill at a meeting of the Brotherhood of Emanuel Lutheran church.

Five trains through Marion had three extra coaches with steamship passengers enroute to New York City. Train No. 8 had one extra coach and Train No. 4 had two extra coaches with persons who were to sail for foreign countries.

Harold W. Kennedy of Martel was one of the seven Ohio State cross country runners awarded letters at the close of the 1935 campaign.

Ballets To End All Ballets

(NO. 1—A MAN TRYING TO DO A DAILY COLUMN)

TO a sound of kettledrums and fiddles, a dozen sprightly young women come swooping from the left, heads thrown back and legs high in air. They circle the stage nine times, fall prostrate, with the third toe of the left foot twitching. This represents Twelve Ideas in Flight." Now from the right an oboe is heard and nine youths in cheesecloth shorts enter swiftly on. They turn handsprings, following up with what seems to be a game of modern leapfrog.

They suddenly see the maidens, do a take around them, and then flee like nobody's business. This business denotes a Columnist in Hurry for Something to Hang a Column and repelling the twelve ideas as requires much effort.

Now the harps, bull fiddles and clarinets their stuff, and a very beautiful lady rolls down a spiral stairway on her toes, bearing a scotch and soda. She is followed by the nine youths. They chase the scotch and soda around the stage, but fall through sheer dizziness.

Here four wild-eyed men, hair flowing in the breeze and swinging rubber mallets, swing into action to some especially goofy music. They represent the foreman of the composing room, the makeup editor, the city editor and the proofreader. They look at the columnist, as represented by the nine youths, angrily, and as the twelve maidens with little change of expression. Eighteen little girls tear across the stage, variety-buckety. They denote the Flight of Time.

Now the tempo of the music becomes furious, the snare drummer fires a pistol, the floodlight shows in centerfield a gorgeous young woman with animated eyebrows, a radiant expression, high knee action and a bundle labeled "Reprinted by Request."

She whistles. The nine youths representing Columnist return from off left immediately. Their faces, which have registered desperation, lack of intellectual fertility and a slight hangover, now register delight, pleasure and sudden rescue.

They chase the lady with the animated eyebrows 'round and 'round and 'round overtaking her on the twenty-third lap when a customer offers $5 for a sprint.

Now they wrest the "Reprinted by Request" bundle away, tear it open and hand something to the composing room foreman. He just swears as usual. The city editor exits playing a piccolo. The make-up editor takes another aspirin. The proofreader sneers and turns to an advertisement for nylons that cannot be sold for another six months.

Now everybody else gets off the floor and comes out of the wings at forty miles an hour wearing veils. That's the best idea so far. As the curtain falls an usher plays Rum and Coca-Cola on a harmonica, waking up all our cash customers who demand their money back. On with the regular show!

We know a fellow who is trying to get into a two-room apartment which his uncle left to him IN TRUST.

Bing Crosby rates a big hand as a human being. He is sponsoring, directing and working harder than he ever worked for the movies in the national drive for the Sister Kenny Infantile Paralysis fund.

A radio program which makes phone calls at random and offers cash prizes if the subscriber answers a question had this one the other day: "Under what king was Daniel tossed into the lion's den?" Elmer Twitchell lost the prize by replying, "This is a deep humiliation, but I can't even recall the name of the lion."

Pedestrians Arise!

By Truman Twill

With a tinkling of glass and a screech of rending metal, reckless drivers have launched the postwar traffic shambles.

Those innocent bystanders, the pedestrians are beginning to jam the casualty lists again. The closed season they enjoyed during gas rationing made them careless.

All the new juggernauts that will come whizzing off the assembly lines when the Detroit auto workers really get going have bigger and better chrome work on the front ends to impress pedestrians. But nothing is being done to help the pedestrians hit back.

Be of good cheer, helpless bipeds. You are not going to be forgotten. The patents are now pending on the Twill plan for arming pedestrians with short lengths of gas pipe. During the war a few improvements were added.

The plan's weak place was the necessity of carrying the gas pipe with you. That hazard has been overcome. There will be boxes at all important intersections. Pedestrians interested in self-defense will pick up their weapons as they need them, and when through will drop the pipes into the nearest convenient box for the next fellow.

For those not familiar with the Twill plan of arming pedestrians, it is founded on the principle that nothing hurts a motorist like a dent in metal work, which is more impressive than his head. And in any event, the latter would be assault and battery with intent to kill.

Motorists evade the assault and battery charge by attacking pedestrians with upward blows of metal on wheels driven by a 90-horsepower engine. They fancy up the job with chrome grill work, massive bumpers and tantalizing lights. These are their vulnerable points—along with shiny fenders, windshields and other accessories.

That, pedestrians, is where we strike when our tempers are hot. Clunk—and a headlight is shattered. Plunk—and there's a new twist in the grill work. Clank—and a fender is dented. Throw the gas pipe end over end and a windshield is atomized.

Organized in flying wedges with pipes swinging, pedestrians might even stage a line of murderous motorists at busy intersections on rainy days. Pedestrians! You have nothing to lose but your crutches! Arise! Get up off of the gutter and defend yourselves! A short length of gas pipe for every pedestrian left alive in the United States by 1946 or strike!

Medals To Navy Men

According to the Army and Navy Bee, a new weekly newspaper edited almost entirely by former service men regular Navy men get three and a half times as many medals proportionately as men who were in the U. S. armed reserves.

The Bulletin quotes All Hands, official publication of the Bureau of Navy Personnel, as saying that regulars received 27 times more Medals of Honor, top heroism award, than the reserves. Not a single reserve says the Bulletin, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal since the last of July, this year. (Some have—Ed.)

The question of whether the Navy discriminated against USNR officers and men has been raised several times in congress, most recently by Rep. Cole (R-NY), member of the house naval affairs committee. The Navy has made slightly more than 50,000 awards since the beginning of the war to July 31, 1945.

The Powerful Gospel

A Sermonette
By REV. M. L. HOLLENSEN
Pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church

For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth" —Romans 1:16.

WE HAVE entered the Advent season of the church year. The word "Advent" means "The Coming," and refers to the coming of Jesus Christ to judge the living and the dead. During the period of Advent, a season which includes four Sundays before Christmas, we are to prepare ourselves for the second and final coming of the Savior, and in so doing to have our hearts ready to celebrate anew the anniversary of His birth at Christmas time.

We thank God that we have adequate means for the spiritual preparation which is necessary for all of us. God has given us His Word, His Gospel, and we are assured that it is so powerful that it is able to bring us to heartfelt repentance because of our sins, to generate faith in our hearts, and to make us true believers in Jesus Christ, our Savior. St. Paul, writing by inspiration of the Holy Spirit, to the Christians at Rome, said that the Gospel of Christ was the "dynamite" of God. If such is the case, then the Gospel must be a great and wondrous power.

Let us look at this tremendously powerful Gospel.

I. The Gospel is tremendously powerful, even though its power works invisibly.

We cannot see the Gospel as it works with power in the human heart. For this reason many persons have no respect for God's Word. They look upon it as being merely the words of men. They cannot observe it in its invisible sphere, hence they draw the conclusion that it is capable of accomplishing nothing. Men look on the Gospel as though it were in a class with the writings of men. Because the Gospel is an invisible power, many would-be Christians and would-be Christian preachers have long ago discarded the Bible. They do not believe that the Gospel is a power or that it has any power about it, and so they seek the wisdom of men, and substitute it for the eternal Word of God.

Christ was well aware of the fact that the Gospel power works invisibly. But Jesus did something to remove any doubts whatsoever in our minds as to the efficacy and power of the Gospel to accomplish that for which it is intended. After having preached to a multitude at the shore of Gennesaret one day, the Master turned to Peter and told him to launch out into the deep, and let down his nets for a draught. Peter was reluctant, but at the command of Christ, he did it. The catch of fishes was so great that the nets tore and broke. What was the purpose of this miracle? Jesus took the power of the Word, which He had been preaching and using, and made this self-same power visible for the multitude, by performing a miracle which all could behold. Jesus proved that the tremendous power of the Word of God, even though it is invisible, is no less than the tremendous power of God Himself.

The power of the Gospel is no less than the power of God Himself! We call the power of the Gospel the power of grace, and the power of God in the physical realm the power of omnipotence. Essentially, this power is one and the same, the very power of God Himself. Even though we cannot see the Gospel-power working in the hearts of men, we have every assurance, based on the testimony of Christ's miracles, that the Gospel is a tremendous power.

The tremendously powerful Gospel In the second place,

II. The Gospel is tremendously powerful, able to save all men.

There has never been a man born of woman who has been beyond the power of the Gospel to save. God cares not what a man has been; whether a man has lived his life in his own way, guiding himself wholly by the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life. God is not concerned how deeply a man has gone on the road to hell. The Gospel is such a magnificent power, such a dynamite, that it can save him.

The Gospel can bring all men to forgiveness of sins, life and salvation, because Christ is the One who has given the Gospel its power. Take Christ out of the Gospel, and it is powerless. It becomes nothing more than mere words, dead and of no value. Put Christ into the Gospel—and Christ is the Gospel itself—and you have the most glorious power on earth, able to bring lost and condemned sinners into the Kingdom of Jesus Christ. Christ atoned for the sins of the world. Christ cancelled the guilt of the human race, and bore the eternal punishment for the whole world. He opened up the way to heaven for sinners, and His Gospel is that power which brings His blessings to all men.

The tremendously powerful Gospel. In the third place,

III. The Gospel is Powerful, nevertheless, saving only those who believe.

God's power in the physical realm is irresistible; God's power in the spiritual realm of a man's soul is resistible. While the Gospel is dynamite, able to save all men, nevertheless, it saves only those who are brought to faith in Jesus Christ. Only those whom the Gospel succeeds in bringing to faith in the Savior are saved. Why are some men not brought to a living faith in the Master? It is not that the power of the Gospel is too weak or too ineffective. It is rather that some men reject the Gospel, and make its power of no effect in their lives. Jesus cried over Jerusalem and said, "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, how often would I have gathered thy children together, and ye would not!" (Matt. 23:37). "Ye would not!" That is why men are lost to perdition! Men fight the Gospel, and when the Gospel-power is resisted, its effectiveness is not lost, but its efficacy is blocked. We cannot blame the Gospel because all men are not saved—we must blame the men for rejecting the Gospel-power.

The man that fights Christ in his life is a fool. Jesus offers him life and salvation, and he wilfully and purposely and voluntarily refuses these gifts of Christ. He thereby by his action condemns and damns himself. Unbelief, because it is a purposive act of a man's will, always damns.

In the Advent season, let us beware lest we resist the Gospel. Let us go to church, welcome God's Word into our hearts, and give it free reign to accomplish its great end. It will deliver us from the curse of sin and hell, and bestow upon us, forgiveness, life and salvation. It will do all these things, because it is the tremendous dynamite and power of God.

Amen.

PLAN CANDLE LIGHT SERVICE

A candle light Christmas carol service will be held Sunday at the evening worship hour of the Epworth Methodist church. The program sponsored by the Youth Fellowship, will be presented under the direction of the Commission on Worship and Evangelism of the Correlated Council, with Miss Eleanor Grant as chairman and Miss Lillis Flatman as assistant. Ushers will be boys from the Youth Division under the direction of Ray Eaton.

The program which is expected to be one of the outstanding attractions of the season, will open with the processional cast by the intermediate department with Miss Grant, Miss Lela Brookshire and Mrs. Ruth Carhart in charge accompanied by Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence. Other features of the program will be an instrumental trio, "In Old Judea" by Mrs. Jane Townley, Paul Smith and Mrs. C. H. Indoe.

Invocation will be given by Dr. S. M. Ingmire and Scripture readings will be given by Richard Foster, Lillis Flatman and Marilyn Cory.

Among the musical presentations will be "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "Silent Night" and "Little Town of Bethlehem" sung by a quartet composed of Patricia Youngblood, Joyce Bohyer, Richard Indoe and Paul McAlister and a trio composed of R. by Lockridge, Arlene Houpt and Patricia Youngblood who will sing "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." Betty Gracely nd Suzellen Roest will light the candles.

The offertory solo, "O Holy Night" will be sung by Miss Avonelle Sifritt and "The Christmas Story" will be presented by Miss Ruth Wilson. An anthem, "The First Noel" will be presented by the intermediate department with Robert Reece and Eugene Winters as soloists. The program will close with an instrumental trio, prayer of dedication and the benediction.

Intermediate Fellowship at "Our House" will be held at 4:30. A short cabinet meeting with Calvin Roest will preside and Tom Indoe will lead the discussion which will be followed by a fellowship hour.

Kills Hubby With Auto
By The Associated Press
PATERSON, N. J., Dec. 8—Accused of killing her husband by chasing him with her automobile, running him down, and pinning him against a cellar door, Mrs. Genevra Humphrey, 47, was held on a murder charge today. Jasper G. Kirchner, assistant to the Passaic county prosecutor, said Mrs. Humphrey had been jealous because her husband—Hugh Edwin Humphrey, 43,—had been going out with another woman.

Halsey Skips Word
By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—Fleet Admiral William F. "Bull" Halsey told senators yesterday that the proposed merger of armed forces "is un-American, un-democratic, and dangerous." (His prepared statement read "damn dangerous" but the admiral skipped the "damn" as he read it.)

Finest of the Fine . . .
When we opened our new funeral home six years ago, many told us that we had the finest establishment of its kind in the city. Though appreciative of their tributes, we were not content to rest on our laurels. We have continuously made improvements, latest of which was the remodeling and enlarging of our display rooms. We shall continue to offer improved facilities, and couple therewith truly professional funeral service at a cost surprisingly low.

The initial meeting of the Laymen's association of the Marion County Methodist Men's organization will be held Monday night at 8 at Prospect Street Methodist church Dr H J. Burgstahler, president of Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware, will speak on "Churchmen and Their Responsibilities in This New Age." Willard Ginder will preside and George Schertzer will be in charge of the program which will be preceded by a short business session

There will be special music Methodist Men for this area was organized at a meeting of Lima district churches in Kenton last month. Churches included in Group Five which is composed of Marion county Methodist are Epworth, Prospect Street, Wesley and Asbury churches of Marion, Green Camp, LaRue, Meeker, Morral, New Bloomington, Prospect and Waldo.

CLOTHING COLLECTION SET FOR WAR NEEDY

Plans are being made for a citywide collection of clothing for overseas relief in which churches of Marion are cooperating The week of Dec. 16-23 has been set as collection week, with a slogan of "American churches must share Christmas with the whole world this year." The social action committee of the Marion County Council of Churches made plans for the drive at a meeting Friday night Various churches, whether affiliated with the council or not, have pledged cooperation, Rev. Eldred Johnston, president of the council, announced.

Each church will work individually, being responsible for collecting, mending and shipping the clothing brought to that church. Doors of churches will be open during collection week so that clothing may be left there, but clothing donated by parishioners of St. Mary Catholic church will be taken to the school, it was announced.

The clothing will be sent to the United Church Service center at New Windsor, Md, which is in charge of the Church Committee on Overseas Relief and Reconstruction Any clothing will be acceptable with the exception of such items as formal wear, straw hats, high-heeled shoes or other articles impracticable for overseas use, Rev. Johnston stated. The articles must be clean and mended before shipping The social action committee of the council includes Arthur Smith, Mrs. Grant Mouser Jr., Robert Thomas, Dr Henry Schaeffer, Charles Ramsey and Rev. Johnston

PRESIDENT SEEKS TO HELP SMALL HOMES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 8—Unessonal gains in construction activity were reported today as the White House worked on new controls intended to guarantee small homes a share in the building boom.

In addition to restoring priorities over building materials, President Truman said yesterday some sort of price control over real estate was needed. Otherwise he foresees inflation, especially in the cost of smaller residences

A report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed a "surge" of city building got under way in October the month when building controls were lifted, but that new dwellings accounted for little more a third of the total new construction The report added

"Since there are no longer any restrictions on home construction, more houses are being built in the higher price brackets."

Mr. Truman told his news conference he did not yet know just how the restoration of priorities would be applied but that the plan was to see that building materials were used principally for residences

Marshall Reveals Bad Guess

every effort was being made then to gain time for strengthening America's outposts

Marshall testified, on this third day's appearance, in reply to questions by Rep. Gearhart (R-Calif) Senator Brewster (R-Me) had planned to find out Marshall's opinion on whether a stopgap agreement with Japan in November, 1941, might have headed off war But Brewster's father died last night, it was announced, and the senator was absent today.

In reviewing the warnings to Hawaii just before war began Gearhart sought to develop that a sabotage alert was perhaps the only one Gen Short could put into effect and yet not "alarm the population"

The witness said that wasn't so, and then explained why he felt it necessary to include such a phrase in his warning messages to Pacific commanders

Moved Carefully

"It was a strong desire of the Army and the Navy and the President, Marshall said, 'that the Japanese be given no opportunity to claim we had made some overt act. If they could create a situation, however illogical or unjust, to force the American people to believe we had forced them into war, we would have had a divided country and that would have been a terrible thing"

Later, when Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) took up the questioning, the subject of responsibility came up again

It was in Gerow's division where the details of the situation rested, Marshall said, "but the responsibility was mine as well as General Gerow's."

Gearhart said a full alert such as Marshall commanded would have meant "filling the air with planes at Hawaii, every soldier in battle dress, trucks and soldiers running all over the place"

Marshall disagreed, contending it would have meant only that every plane should be armed equipped and ready, and reconnaissance extended out to sea

Marshall showed signs of annoyance when Gearhart suggested Short was entitled to more information

"He was issued a command to do something," the general said crisply "If he misunderstood it, that's a matter of judgment"

Might Have Been Peace

Marshall volunteered yesterday that he thought Japan might never have attacked the United States had Tokyo's war lords waited until January, 1942.

His reasoning was that the Japanese apparently scheduled their attack to come at the time of an expected German triumph in Russia—and in January that expectation dimmed.

Marshall also told how, in September, 1944, he sent two letters asking Governor Thomas E. Dewey to head off talk in the presidential campaign which the general feared might disclose the United States had broken secret Japanese codes Dewey, the Republican presidential nominee, agreed.

The letters sketched the vital part the code-breaking played in combat with the Japanese, by giving knowledge of their movements Then came this:

"You will understand from the foregoing the utterly tragic consequences of the present political debates regarding Pearl Harbor disclose to the enemy, German or Jap, any suspicion of the vital sources of information we now possess"

SEARCH

joined the search inland, handicapped by a dense fog.

While concentrating on the Orlando-Melbourne zone, the great search by hundreds of planes, dozens of ships and a Navy escort-carrier was pressed far out to sea again today.

Marionites Urged To Provide Gift for Vets in Hospitals

Marionites were urged today to make a final effort today and Monday to donate a Christmas present for the wounded veterans receiving treatment in the Ohio hospitals.

The campaign here to collect packages for these servicemen is being held by the Bird-McGinnis Post and the American Legion auxiliary. Slogan for the campaign is "A gift for the yank who gave". So far, the gifts haven't been too numerous, Craig M. Rogers, commander of the post reported, and Marion's contribution to the hospitals at Christmas time will be about 200 packages short of their original goal unless the boxes placed in various stores to hold the gifts fill up today and Monday.

Each state is assigned to furnish gifts for the men in the hospitals in their own state. There are about ten military hospitals in Ohio. Mr. Rogers hoped to have at least 250 or 300 gifts. So far only about 100 packages have been donated.

If the assurance of a "Merry Christmas" is going to be given to some serviceman by the residents of Marion, then that number must at least be doubled, Mr Rogers said

Donors are asked to list the contents on the outside of the package to aid in the sorting.

Boxes have been placed at the following stores where the gifts may be left. County Legion headquarters, 110 West Center street; Harraman's dry cleaning, 440 Davids street; Ralston's grocery, Davids street and Bellefontaine avenue; Smart and Waddell, East Center street, Markert and Lewis, East Center street and Beal's Food Market, Grand avenue and East Center street.

BIG 3 TO MEET ON A-BOMB IN MOSCOW

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—The Big Three among world powers will make their first joint approach to the ominous subject of atomic energy control at a meeting of United States, British and Russian foreign secretaries in Moscow December 15.

An official announcement by the state department said "an exchange of views on the subject of the control of atomic energy" would be held. The secretaries also will take up other matters of "current concern" to their governments.

Secretary of State Byrnes will have to leave by early next week to meet Foreign Minister Bevin of Britain and Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia on the agreed date.

PFC. MELVIN E. HORD AWARDED BRONZE STAR

Decoration Given for Act of Heroism in Germany.

Pfc. Melvin E Hord, son of Mrs. Martha B' Hord of 786 East Center street, was awarded the Bronze Star while stationed with the 7th Engineer battalion in Germany, according to a public relations report from Camp Campbell, Ky The citation stated that the award was given "for distinctive heroism in connection with military operations against the enemy on March 4, 1945, in Germany.

Although the enemy was directing heavy mortar and small arms fire in the immediate vicinity, Pvt. Hord, a member of a construction platoon, with complete disregard for personal safety, continued his duties until an assault boat ferry was completed and utilized as a main supply and evacuation means by our forces at the newly established Kyll River bridgehead."

RUSSIA

ern Iran did not, in the Soviet view, correspond to the facts. It declared the events did not constitute an armed uprising and were not even directed against the national government at Teheran

The so-called popular assembly of northern Iran is seeking only assurance of democratic rights for the people of Azerbaijan providence, Molotov asserted

"As far as the Soviet military command is concerned, it has not hindered, and is not hindering the movement of the Iranian military forces and gendarme police units which are in the districts of northern Iran," Molotov said.

Russia opposed the sending of additional Iranian forces to the area in the belief that such reinforcements would only increase the disorders and bloodshed, he explained.

SECOND FLU DEATH REPORTED IN OHIO

By The Associated Press

A second Ohio death was attributed to influenza today as Elizabeth Ann Warner, 17, of Wooster died yesterday in a City hospital after being stricken with the disease.

Miss Ethel McDaniel, 54, Martins Ferry high school teacher, earlier was reported dead of pneumonia which developed from an influenza attack

Only three schools in Mahoning county, outside of Youngstown, were not closed by the flu outbreak and 10 basketball games involving teams in schools outside the city were cancelled Friday night.

"The situation is growing worse" Mahoning County School Superintendent Edward Saltsman declared of ordering her to risk battle, Raeder commented

"The Graf Spee would have had to glide down the Rio de la Plata to reach the open sea. Before reaching deep waters it would have been seized by superior fighting units and knocked out without the possibility of developing its fighting powers or, after being put out of commission, of proceeding to scuttle"

He said he was unable to answer from memory inquiries as to the performance of the battleship Bismarck, which was hunted down and destroyed after sinking the British battlecruiser Hood in 1941, or why the Admiral Tirpitz was withheld from action.

One English Egg Leads Mackenzie To Story on Loan

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Wartime Traveler

LONDON, Dec 8—When I returned to my hotel room yesterday afternoon I found a hen's egg carefully cradled on the pen-tray of my writing table—but without rhyme, reason or explanation of where it came from.

On examination, however, there was the number of our room penciled in big figures across the white shell, and on the other side was a green stamp saying the egg came from Canada

D. Mackenzie

Then suddenly I remembered fresh eggs are so scarce in England that, while the ration varies, the Briton and visitors are lucky to get one or two a month, the rest being in the form of egg powder.

That egg haunted me. Surely I kept saying to myself, there's a story somewhere in it for this column Mrs Mac and I went in search of an answer, which we got from a special police constable and his young wife.

They live in a tiny apartment with their school-age daughter The wife works in an office and their combined income is about thirty dollars a week.

Given a Jewel

Constable ("Mick", his wife called him) is the good sturdy beef-eating (when we can get it) type—a man of action and few words. The wife, "Lou," is smart and does the talking for the family, and so it was she who answered when I asked for her reaction to my egg conundrum

She replied, "My immediate reaction is that you've found a jewel. That egg is a wonderful meal. You can't imagine how we treasure eggs, with our short and monotonous rations. It's been tough going, especially since lend-lease stopped and cut us off from tinned meat."

"Was there ever any time when you were hungry and couldn't get food?" I asked.

"No," said "Lou," "we never have gone hungry, but the awful sameness of the few things we can buy is depressing."

Finally I asked if the egg gave her any other thought. She whipped an evening newspaper from a table and held it up so that I could see a banner headline right across the top of the front page It proclaimed "More Food, Clothes by Spring," and was based on the success of the new Anglo-American loan negotiations.

"That's the brightest news we've had since the war ended," she said.

"Is that what the loan means to the average working man and woman in England," I asked.

Everything All Right

"Yes," she nodded vigorously "We are interested in relief from this hard life. It's not only the shortage of food, but of all necessities. All clothing, and especially shoes, are frightfully hard to get You have to hunt for weeks sometimes to find what you need."

"Well, then, what will be the effect of this loan on relations between your country and mine?" I asked.

"Good," she exclaimed without hesitation, "You know, we were feeling pretty sore about the stoppage of lend-lease. We thought the people of America didn't want to help us any more. We didn't understand But now everything is all right again, and the feeling in England will be better."

KIDNAPERS GIVE WARNING

CHELSEA, Mass., Dec. 8—Detectives sought desperately today to find the person who told the father of kidnaped six-months-old Roland Carlan the child would be returned "in a box." James J Carlan, a Navy man, told police a man telephoned him last night and said: "Tell your double-crossing wife that the deal's off because she tipped the police. Tell her you'll get the baby back in a box."

JAPS PICK UP WAR COST BILL

Staggering List Faces Nippon on Fourth Anniversary of Formal Declaration.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Dec. 8—Besten Japan learned today—on this fourth anniversary of her declaration of war on the United States—the staggering costs of defeat

Some of the newly revealed "price tags":

1. Japan is paying over $2,200,000 daily to support American occupation forces

2. Some Japanese war leaders may be tried in Hawaii for "murder" because of the Pearl Harbor attack.

3 A diet member, Ibera Takeo Kimura, has demanded Japan regain China's friendship by restoring the loot she took from that nation

4. Lt Gen. Masaharu Homma who led the Japanese to triumph in the Philippines is to be taken soon to Manila for trial as the man responsible for the "Bataan death march

5 The Japanese reading public for the first time is being presented an American Army prepared outline of Japanese plotting which led the nation to downfall.

6. The first war criminal trials will begin at Yokohama, Dec 17 the Army announced officially today. On that date an American military tribunal will begin hearing the first of approximately 300 Japanese accused of atrocities against American prisoners of war.

These first trials include none of the so-called major suspects whose war-guilt hearings are scheduled to begin in January

Empire newspapers today devoted portions of their front pages to U. S. Army-written reports on origin of the war. Most Japanese are unfamiliar with details of their militarist's calculated aggression.

Three in Court After Fight in Restaurant

George A. Bell, 24, of near Caledonia pleaded guilty today in municipal court to charges of malicious destruction of property and disorderly conduct and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse.

His brother, LeRoy Bell, 19 and Claude Colville, 29, of the Milner Hotel, pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct and were fined $25 and costs.

The three were arrested at 12 a m today in the Mayfair restaurant on South Main street as the result of a fight in which a plate glass window was broken

Would this be fair?

Can you imagine your milkman, grocer, barber or tailor charging you extra just because you were able to pay more than some people?

Of course you can't. And what a state of confusion everything would soon be in if people tried to operate that way.

Suppose the people GM workers trade with told them, "We know you make more than most industrial workers, so we're going to charge you more for everything!"

Yet this is exactly the principle UAW-CIO leaders are trying to establish in their wage demands on General Motors.

To be logical, union leaders should also say to a company that is losing money, "You're having a hard time making both ends meet, so we're suggesting a cut in wages."

Can you imagine any union leader ever making such an offer? Of course, you can't.
